Ives Gives Retort To Taft Statement

Eisenhower Supporters Iked at Methods Being Used

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—Senator Taft's assertion that Eisenhower-for-President supporters are "crying to high heaven" against the methods of Taft's campaign manager brought a "rightfully so" retort from Senator Ives (R-N.Y.) today.

Taft, an announced candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said yesterday that those seeking the nomination for Gen. Eisenhower have been contending he (Taft) couldn't win the election next November.

The Ohio Senator added he wasn't able to understand "why the Eisenhower people should cry to high heaven" because Taft's manager, David S. Ingalls, had made the same argument against naming Eisenhower to head the GOP ticket.

More Than That
"It's more than that," said Ives, an Eisenhower backer. "The Taft people are trying to tear down Eisenhower by innuendo, and I think the result has been to enhance the general's chances for the nomination."

Taft, who expressed his views on a television program (NBC's Meet the Press) said in reply to a question that he will support Eisenhower for the presidency if the general wins the nomination. Grinning, Taft then said to news-

"I might ask whether you know whether he will support me if I should be nominated?"

Taft declined to say whether he actively will back the campaign of his brother, Charles P. Taft, to get the Republican nomination for governor of Ohio. Asked about that, the Senator replied:

"I'm not sure. At least I don't think I'll say at the present time. . . . I don't want to become involved in a primary contest in Ohio, and so I think the people there understand—some of my friends are supporting Charlie and some are opposing him—and I think the Republicans of Ohio should decide without influence from me."

Other Developments
Elsewhere on the political front:

1. Senator Douglas (D-Ill.) said in a Delaware, Ohio, lecture yesterday he believes presidential politicians in the Republican party want Eisenhower as a candidate only if they feel he is the only one who could win the election.

And, he added: "If Eisenhower is nominated, I believe he will be elected."

Highway Program Gains in Popular Priority, Majority Leader Declares

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 21—Residents of the Catskill Mountain area are showing keen interest in a proposed five-point program designed to reduce the heavy highway toll of life and property, Senate Majority Leader Arthur H. Wick, of this city, said today.

"The highway safety program has top legislative priority in the minds of residents of my Senate district of Delaware, Greene, Sullivan and Ulster counties, if the mail which is being received in Albany is any indication," Senator Wick stated. Each day brings a new influx of letters urging support of this program.

"It is gratifying to see the interest shown in this important project and I am endeavoring to answer every letter received in Albany. It is sometimes impossible or impractical to reply to letters on which the signatures are not entirely clear, but I do not want any resident to think that I am not cognizant of his interest. I fully appreciate the seriousness of the highway problem and will give most earnest consideration to any and all proposals to help reduce motor vehicle accidents."

Five Points of Program
The five-point program to which the letters have referred includes: State inspection of automobiles; expansion of driver education; revision of driver licensing examinations and periodic re-examination of drivers; modernization and tightening of traffic regulations, and enlargement of the state police force.

Emphasizing that the Republican administration in Albany is well aware of the need for attacking the highway problem, Senator Wick said:

"Governor Dewey devoted a substantial part of his annual message to the legislature to the subject of highway safety and outlined a comprehensive accident prevention program, including periodic inspection of automobiles; expanded driver training; improvement and extension of highway marking. Soviets to Use Veto on Libya

Action Is Set Unless UN Okays Admission of Red Satellites

Paris, Jan. 21 (AP)—Russia served formal notice today she will veto the application of Libya for United Nations membership unless the West agrees to simultaneous admission of five Soviet satellites.

Soviet Delegate Jacob A. Malik told the UN's 60-nation political committee the admission of Libya could not be separated from that of other countries. He said the Soviet Union would apply the same rule to Italy.

Malik's statement apparently ruled out any chance for Libyan or Italian membership in the near future. Many delegates had hoped Russia would refrain from vetoing Libya because that North African kingdom is the first nation set up by the United Nations. They had also speculated that Russia might agree to admit Libya as a gesture to the Arab states, which have been urging it.

Gives Resolution
Malik submitted a resolution calling on the general assembly to ask the Security Council to admit Albania, Bulgaria, Hungary, Ro-

Survivors Tell Of Praying as 26 Slide Off in Ocean

Only Seven Remain on Wreck When Boat Reaches Plane; Numb With Cold

McCord Air Force Base, Wash., Jan. 21 (AP)—Seven survivors told yesterday of praying in unison as they watched 26 passengers of a crash-landed Korean airlift plane swept one by one to their deaths in icy North Pacific seas.

One soldier told of baptizing a youth just before he slipped beneath the battering waves.

Thirty-three of the 43 persons aboard got out of the plane safely after it hit the water off the British Columbia coast. But only seven remained huddled on the half-submerged wreckage when fishermen arrived with a skiff.

The seven survivors, flown here Saturday night from Sandspit Airport in the Queen Charlotte Islands, told of a 90-minute struggle for survival in the icy seas. They described how, numb with cold, they clung to a slippery wing until the rescue boat arrived.

Had Engine Trouble
The four-engine plane, inbound from Japan with troops en route home on emergency leave, crash-landed a mile off Sandspit Airport early Saturday after it developed engine trouble.

The survivors said ten were killed in the crash. The others managed to reach the wing.

Lt. Donald E. Baker, 26, of Glendale, Calif., said the plane was "flying well on three engines" when it touched the runway at Sandspit in an attempted emergency landing.

"We ran part way down the runway," Baker said. "After he (the pilot) touched down, evidently, he decided he couldn't make it."

U.S. Official Makes Spot Death Probe

Consul Goes to Ismailia to Investigate Killing of Nun—British Say Egyptians to Blame

Versions Conflict

British Claim Witnesses but Egyptians Declare Anglo Bullet Cause

Ismailia, Egypt, Jan. 21 (AP)—The U. S. consul from Cairo arrived here today for an on-the-spot investigation of the slaying of an American nun, the first American casualty in the bloody Suez fighting.

At the same time, a British staff officer here announced a military court of inquiry would meet to determine who killed the nun. He did not say when. In earlier statements, which the officer said were based on preliminary reports, the British blamed the Egyptians.

British officials said Egyptian "thugs" were responsible for the slaying of Sister Anthony, 52, born Brigitte Ann Timbers, daughter of Samuel Timbers of Peekskill, N. Y. But Egyptian officials asserted that British rifle fire killed her as she stepped from her convent door Saturday with other nuns to welcome a British tank detachment.

As British troops virtually completed their task of clearing out the Arab quarter of this Suez Canal Zone center, a private refuge Mass was held for Sister Anthony. U. S. Ambassador Jefferson Caffery in Cairo said her death is a matter of "grave concern" to the United States.

Consul Goes For Probe
Caffery sent Lamar Mulliner, the U. S. consul in Cairo, to investigate at first hand the circumstances of the nun's death. Mulliner had these conflicting versions before him:

The British army issued an announcement saying one of a group of Egyptian "thugs" was responsible for putting a bullet through the nun's heart. They said the Egyptians invaded the convent garden to throw bombs at the British. The British claimed to have eyewitnesses.

But the Egyptians declared a British bullet killed the nun. There was evidence that British rifle fire was directed at the convent. The mother superior of the convent told this correspondent she knew of no eyewitnesses to the slaying.

The Egyptian press accused the British of "attempting to rouse Americans against Egypt" by giving a "false account" of the shooting.

This correspondent saw at least 12 bullet marks on the front wall of the convent behind which Sister Anthony was standing when she was shot although last night's

State May Get Higher '52 Budget

Dewey Will Offer First Billion-Dollar Plan Next Week, Minus Tax Increases

Pay-as-Go Planned

Revenues Are Expected to Be $1,050,000,000 This Year

Albany, Jan. 21 (AP)—A probable 100-million-dollar jump in spending may zoom New York state's 1952-53 budget close to $1,050,000,000, fiscal sources hinted today.

Governor Dewey, who has pledged that he would ask for no tax increases, will submit the state's first billion-dollar budget to the legislature late next week.

The anticipated 100-million-dollar boost, it was speculated, would consist of between 20 and 25 million more for state operations and debt service, about 30 million additional for state aid to localities, and 40 to 50 million more for capital construction.

Such a fiscal pattern apparently would preclude any special increases in state aid for New York city, which reportedly will bid for an extra 63 million.

The 1951-52 state budget provided for about $250,100,000 in state aid for New York city.

To Finance Program
Dewey plans to finance his 1952-53 fiscal program on a pay-as-you-go basis, through inflation-biased revenues. Some fiscal sources estimate revenues will reach a record high of nearly $1,050,000,000 this year and approach or reach that mark in fiscal 1952-53.

The new budget, which goes to the printers this week, was discussed by Dewey and Republican legislative leaders last night at their weekly "kitchen cabinet" meeting in the executive mansion.

It was believed that Dewey and the GOP high command agreed not to push legislative redistricting at the current session, which is heading for the mid-March adjournment.

Legislative redistricting probably will be enacted at a special session this year, or at the 1953 regular session.

Informed observers said that state Senate reapportionment, which will increase the Senate membership from 56 to either 57 or 58, could be completed in time for the 1952 elections.

Could Not Be Completed
However, they said that drawing of new Assembly lines by county boards of supervisors could not be completed in time for the election next fall.

As a result, legislative reapportionment apparently will not become effective until the 1954 election.

A plan to revise the system of

Year-end Debt	$260,222,000,000	$274,922,000,000

Calls It Price of Peace

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—President Truman today sent Congress an $85,444,000,000 spending budget, an unprecedented figure except in all-out war. He said it was "a heavy burden . . . the price of peace."

To lawmakers talking loudly of economy in this election year, the President outlined an 11 billion dollar expansion in armed forces spending to more than 51 billion including a start on building the air force from 90 wings to 143.

And he gave notice, in a budget preview for reporters, that a new five to six billion dollar five-year expansion program for atomic energy facilities will go to Congress soon. This isn't included in his budget for the fiscal year starting July 1, Mr. Truman said, because it would be spent later—in connection with some fantastic weapons.

He said his foreign aid program, under especially heavy criticism, "is vital and indispensable . . . in the total fight for security and peace." Mr. Truman called for expanding total aid from $6,868,000,000 this year to $10,844,000,000 next fiscal year, with military aid alone jumping from four to eight billion.

His budget, he said in his annual message, "is carefully planned to carry us a long way forward on the road to security." He warned there is grim evidence "the Kremlin would not hesitate to resort to war in order to gain its ends."

Mr. Truman said without new taxes, his budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 would plunge the government $14,446,000,000 farther in the red.

Deficit 8 Billions
The deficit for the current fiscal year was an estimated $8,201,000,000.

Then he repeated a call for about $4,600,000,000 "at the very least" in additional revenue—a call that apparently fell on deaf ears when he first urged more taxes last Wednesday in his economic report to Congress.

In today's message to Congress the President didn't pitch his plea as strongly as he did last week nor did he specifically mention rate increases as he did in his economic report. He emphasized "loophole" plugging.

The President told reporters, however, he wants the same rates he asked for last year when Congress cut his new tax program from 10 billion to about $5,400,000,000. This would mean approximately a five per cent increase in personal income taxes, an increase in the normal corporation rate from 52 to 55 per cent, and more excise (sales) taxes.

Fair Deal Measures
Mr. Truman tacked on a his budget a reduced flock of "Fair Deal" measures.

Five Men Survive Crash Of Plane on Mountain Peak

Port Angeles, Wash., Jan. 21 (AP)—Five crewmen of a B-17 Mercy plane yesterday survived the crash of their ship on an Olympic peninsula peak and a 1,300 foot plunge down the snow-covered slope.

Three other men, presumably thrown from the plane during its plunge, were listed as missing. A para-medical team of four pressed a search for them.

The four-engine search and rescue plane was returning from the scene of a British Columbia plane crash Saturday night when it clipped the top of 6,359-foot Tyler Peak in a blinding snowstorm.

The ship bounded over the peak and skidded through the snow down to the 5,000-foot level. Search planes located the wreckage Sunday.

Only two of the survivors required hospitalization and they had only cuts and bruises. They were the pilot, Capt. Casimir F. Hybki, 31, of Tacoma, Wash., and the crew chief Sgt. Carl E. Scargall, 22, Tillamook, Wash.

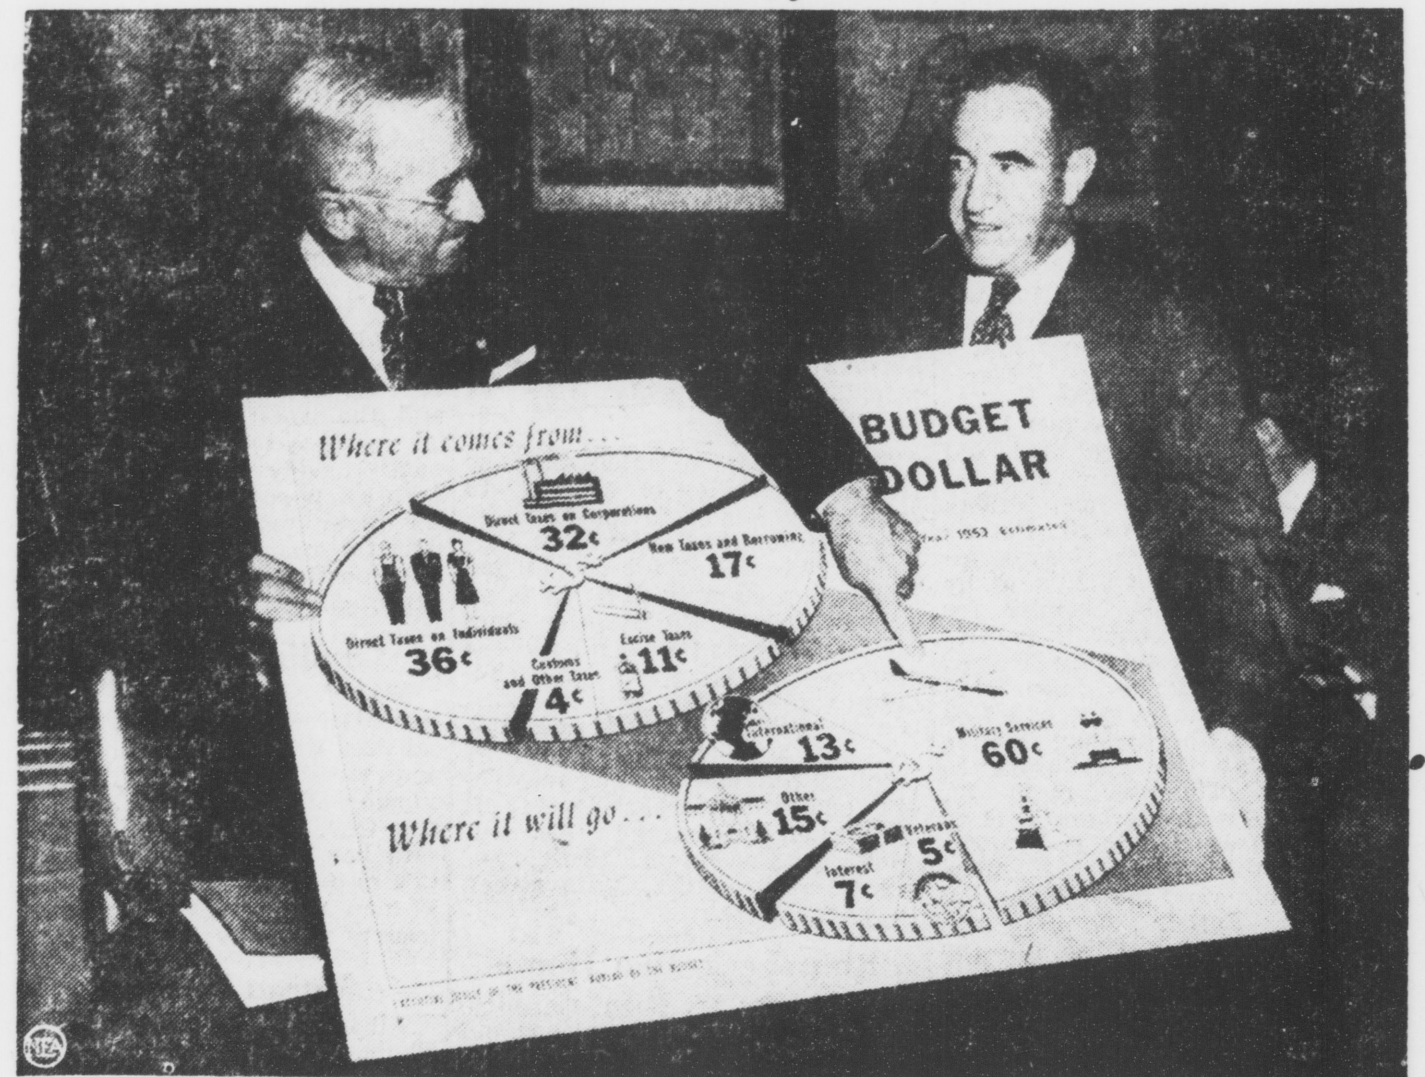

Capt. Hybki said the crash came just five minutes after the crew had obtained the last "fix" on their position.

"The air was turbulent," said the pilot, "tossing the plane up 700 to 800 feet at times. A blinding snowstorm prevented seeing the mountain."

"There was a blinding flash—we

No Progress Made on Truce; Attack May Have Happened

Munsan, Korea, Jan. 21 (AP)—The UN command said today allied jets without meaning to may have attacked a Communist truce convoy on the Kaesong-Pyongyang highway Friday.

At the same time, the allies accused the Reds of violating the agreement guaranteeing freedom from attack to one northbound and one southbound convoy daily.

These developments came as subcommittees working on a Korean armistice again reported no progress.

The UN acknowledged that four planes bombed and strafed a bridge and antiaircraft positions near where the Reds said a plainly marked convoy of two trucks and a jeep was hit.

Pilots who took part in the attack said they sighted no vehicles in the area, reported Marine Col. James C. Murray, UN staff officer who investigated.

Murray added that if the convoy were stopped or parked in shadows it might have escaped observation.

He declared that if a Red truce convoy were in the attack zone, it apparently was in violation of the agreement permitting a limited number of vehicles to travel between the North Korean capital, Pyongyang, and Communist truce headquarters at Kaesong.

A properly marked southbound convoy of one jeep and one truck was sighted in the area three hours before the attack began, Murray said.

Day Line to Ask Right to Make Trips to Catskill
The Hudson River Day Line will seek permission to make one or more trips a week to Catskill from New York, it was learned today.

A New York source said George Sanders, president of the line, announced yesterday his plans to seek a permit to extend the boat trips beyond Poughkeepsie.

Service to Catskill and other points beyond Poughkeepsie, was discontinued in 1948, and Sanders' decision to run the boats as far as Catskill is apparently the result of efforts by the Greene County Chamber of Commerce.

Kingston Not Included
Kingston will not be included in the boats' stops because of the inability to obtain proper dock and land transportation terminal facilities.

The line will make its application for the limited service to the Interstate Commerce Commission and the New York State Public Service Commission this week, the New York Times reported.

Its three boats will continue daily service to Indian Point, Bear Mountain, West Point, Newburgh and Poughkeepsie.

'Slight Accident' Leads to Charge
The driver of one of two cars involved in what police described as a "slight accident" at Main and Wall streets Saturday night, was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

The police report at 10:14 p. m., said one car was driven by Frank Cohen, of 70 North Front street, and the other was operated by Louis A. Lewis, of Woodstock, who was arrested on the charge by Officers Walter VanSteenburgh and Albert Elise.

The case was put over for two weeks when Lewis appeared before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today. He was represented by Attorney Frank Martocci.

An assault charge against Willow Harrell, 53, of 53 Van Buren street, who was arrested by his son, Moses, Jan. 15, was dismissed with the complainant failed to appear.

thorized markings on vehicles using this supply route or staggering of vehicles in convoy will in great measure nullify our efforts to spare the vehicles serving your delegation from attack," Murray added.

During a fruitless two-hour subcommittee session on prisoner exchange the Communists again accused the allies of scheming to deliver prisoners of war to South Korea and Nationalist China by insisting on voluntary repatriation.

UN delegates, on the other hand, argued that the Reds are seeking to build up their armies by demanding the return of all prisoners without giving them a free choice.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckolls, official U. S. spokesman, said the Red all-for-all exchange plan would give the Communists a net gain of more than 150,000 "effective fighting men."

The official UN communique said such an exchange would give the Reds a "significant increase in their military forces unless those men are paid not to engage further in the Korean conflict."

Nuckolls said there was no mention by either side of the allied offer to drop its demand for a man-for-man exchange of prisoners for displaced civilians in North Korea—if the Reds agree to let all civilians return home if they wish.

Rear Adm. R. E. Libby asked the Communists for an accounting of how many South Koreans they expect to return.

Dulles Blamed by Czechs
Paris, Jan. 21 (AP)—Czechoslovakia today blamed the Second World War on John Foster Dulles, Republican advisor to the U. S. State Department, and said he started it all with a visit to Germany in 1933. The accusation was made by Karol Petrzalka, Czechoslovak Minister of Justice and UN delegate, in supporting Russia's demands that the Assembly's legal committee write a definition of aggression. The Soviet bloc previously has charged Dulles with being the man who gave the signal to start the Korean war.

Chance to Dry Given
Los Angeles, Jan. 21 (AP)—It looks like the weather man is giving Southern California a chance to dry out today. There were a few showers last night, but the latest forecast is a cheerful one for this area, which had 7.37 inches of rain in three days last week and the worst flood in 14 years. The forecasters say it will be partly cloudy today and tomorrow with a few scattered showers near the mountains. And for the Los Angeles area itself, partly cloudy but mostly sunny, with no rain expected.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—The stock market turned to a pattern of quiet trading and a narrow mixture of prices today as President Truman laid before Congress the largest budget in history, except in time of all-out war.

Activity simmered down and prices backed away from their gains shortly after the opening of the market.

There were no especially strong or weak market groups. The mixed tendencies ran through all categories.

Issues that ran contrary to the narrow price changes included American Woolen, St. Regis Paper and Argo Oil (all ahead around a point at times).

On the other side of the fence were Case and American Cyanamid which showed similar losses at intervals.

The advances included Studebaker, Boeing, Anaconda, Home, Mining, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, Union Pacific, Southern Railway, Johns-Manville and U. S. Gypsum.

Among the declines were National Distillers, Zenith Radio, Kennecott Copper, Santa Fe, Baltimore and Ohio, Sinclair Oil, and Transworld Airlines.

Day Line to Ask Right to Make Trips to Catskill

The Hudson River Day Line will seek permission to make one or more trips a week to Catskill from New York, it was learned today.

A New York source said George Sanders, president of the line, announced yesterday his plans to seek a permit to extend the boat trips beyond Poughkeepsie.

Service to Catskill and other points beyond Poughkeepsie, discontinued in 1948, and Sanders' decision to run the boats as far as Catskill is apparently the result of efforts by the Greene County Chamber of Commerce.

Kingston Not Included
Kingston will not be included in the boats' stops because of the inability to obtain proper dock and land transportation terminal facilities.

The line will make its application to the limited service to the Interstate Commerce Commission and the New York State Public Service Commission this week, the New York Times reported.

Its three boats will continue daily service to Indian Point, Bear Mountain, West Point, Newburgh and Poughkeepsie.

'Slight Accident' Leads to Charge

The driver of one of two cars involved in what police described as a "slight accident" at Main and Wall streets Saturday night, was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

The police report at 10:14 p. m. said one car was driven by Frank Cohen, of 70 North Front street, and the other was operated by Louis A. Lewis, of Woodstock, who was arrested on the charge by Officers Walter VanSteenburgh and Albert Eisele.

The case was put over for two weeks when Lewis appeared before City Judge Raymond J. Mino today. He was represented by Attorney Frank Matocci.

An assault charge against Willow Harrell, 53, of 53 Van Buren street, who was arrested by his son, Moses, Jan. 15, was dismissed when the complainant failed to appear.

During a fruitless two-hour subcommittee session on prisoner exchange the Communists again accused the allies of scheming to deliver prisoners of war to South Korea and Nationalist China by insisting on voluntary repatriation.

UN delegates, on the other hand, argued that the Reds are seeking to build up their armies by demanding the return of all prisoners without giving them a free choice.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, official UN spokesman, said the Red all-for-all exchange plan would give the Communists a net gain of more than 150,000 "effective" fighting men.

The official UN communique said such an exchange would give the Reds a "significant increase in their military forces unless these men are paroled not to engage further in the Korea conflict."

Nuckols said there was no mention by either side of the allied demand to drop the demand for a man-for-man exchange of prisoners for displaced civilians in North Korea, if the Reds agree to let all civilians return home if they wish.

Rear Adm. R. E. Libby asked the Communists for an accounting of how many South Koreans they expect to return.

Dulles Blamed by Czechs
Paris, Jan. 21 (AP)—Czechoslovakia today blamed the Second World War on John Foster Dulles, Republican advisor to the U. S. State Department, and said he started it in 1933. The accusation was made by Karol Petzelka, Czechoslovak Ministry of Justice official and UN delegate, in supporting Russia's demands that the Assembly's legal committee write a definition of aggression. The Soviet government previously has charged Dulles with being the man who gave the signal to start the Korean war.

Chance to Dry Given
Los Angeles, Jan. 21 (AP)—It looks like the weather man is giving Southern California a chance to dry out today. There were a few showers last night, only traces in some places, but the latest forecast is a cheerful one for this area, which had 7.37 inches of rain in three days last week and the worst flood in 14 years.

The forecasters say it will be partly cloudy today and tomorrow with a few scattered showers near the mountains. And for the Los Angeles area itself, partly cloudy but mostly sunny, with no rain expected.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—The stock market turned to a pattern of quiet trading and a narrow mixture of prices today as President Truman laid before Congress the largest budget in history, except in time of all-out war.

Activity simmered down and prices backed away from their gains shortly after the opening of the market.

There were no especially strong or weak market groups. The mixed tendencies ran through all categories.

Issues that ran contrary to the narrow price changes included American Woolen, St. Regis Paper and Argo Oil (all ahead around a point at times).

On the other side of the fence were Case and American Cyanamid which showed similar losses at intervals.

The advances included Studebaker, Boeing, Anaconda, Homestake Mining, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, Union Pacific, Southern Railway, Johns-Manville and U. S. Gypsum.

Among the declines were National Distillers, Zenith Radio, Kennecott Copper, Santa Fe, Baltimore and Ohio, Sinclair Oil, and Transworld Airline.

God Bless America Silences Red Heckler

With U. S. 7th Division, Korea, Jan. 21 (AP)—A Communist soldier in a frontline bunker barely 20 yards from American positions hurled insults at his foes, but was effectively hushed.

Infantrymen of Company F, 32nd Bucaanier Regiment, were engaging in barber shop harmony more volume than quality. The Red interrupted.

"You guys can't sing!" Cpl. Felix Fratto of Salt Lake City, hollered back "you couldn't do any better."

Cpl. Earl Humphrey of Denver, and Cpl. James Rutherford of Inverhough, Calif., agreed.

The Red then did a near professional job with "Tennessee Waltz."

But the company commander, Lt. Walter Kandelin of Fitchburg, Mass., and executive officer, Lt. William Glenn of Portland, Ore., made a suggestion.

Soon the American troops were singing "God Bless America."

That silenced the Communist.

Should Congress Be Televised? Acheson Requests The Answer: Yes, No; Yes-No

By ARTHUR EDSON

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—Three congressmen have been warmly debating the question: "Should Congress Be Put on Television?" typically, they have come up with three answers: yes, no, yes-and-no.

The debate, prepared for a magazine put out by the Academy of Radio and Television Arts and Sciences, appears in the Congressional Record.

You, too, may have wondered why it's not possible to see congress in action (I use the word loosely), so let's have a look at the arguments:

Yes, emphatically, says Rep. Javits (R-NY). His view: "We are arbitrarily limiting the scope of our democracy by not televising and broadcasting congressional sessions."

Even Javits won't go whole hog. He would limit television to major debate. This, he said, would bring enough additional information to the people to make for better government.

No, emphatically, says Senator Gillette (D-Iowa). "Congress is a deliberative and legislative body," Gillette said. "It is not a theatre, a music hall or a sports arena."

He thinks television would be a distraction, and that Congress should stick to deliberating and legislating.

Yes and No

Yes, and no, says Senator Wiley (R-Wis.).

Wiley gets off to this glorious start:

"Congress, at least in some respects, provides perfect material for TV."

"The Senate and House have more drama than the most superb television playhouse, more newsworthiness than the most up-to-the-minute video television news reel, occasional humor to provide splendid refreshment for even light-minded onlookers, variety of subject matter to outmatch the finest variety show."

"I don't believe this is quite the way I would describe Congress, and after getting his breath back, Wiley seems to shy away from it, too."

He would like to see joint sessions of Congress televised, as they are now, and important hearings, as they sometimes are now.

But Wiley foresees numerous difficulties in televising actual House and Senate debates. He faces one problem with admirable frankness.

"In the Senate," he said, "it would be difficult, if not impossible, to force a limitation on debate and thus prevent 'hogging of the TV camera.'"

And indeed it would.

Can Be Neutral

Since I don't own a television set, I can be neutral on this.

Some of the finest, most exciting moments I ever have had have come while watching Congress. But the average, routine session offers few lures for the television watching wanting a quick thrill.

A look at an average Senate day might be helpful.

On this average day the main items were (a) the introduction of a university military training bill, and (b) a discussion of a proposal for home rule for the voteless citizens of Washington.

As usual, the senators wandered all over the conventional lot.

The talk covered everything from the development of Kentucky's big Sandy River "including the Levisa and Tug Fork thereof," to the Japanese government, a reciprocal trade, to an investigation of the State Department, to a query from Tilford, O., Thompson of Hatton, N. D.

Thompson asked Senator Langer (R-ND): How can a farmer sell eggs for 25 cents a dozen when laying mash costs $4.39? The talk went on and on, for four hours and 46 minutes.

But Wiley's standards, the Senate came in with only a 50-50 rating that day. The session certainly provided some newsworthiness, and heaven knows there was a variety of subject matter. But no superb drama, no occasional humor to furnish splendid refreshment for us light-minded on-lookers.

See what I mean? Am I too late for Kula, Fran and Ollie?

The essence of the treaties, Acheson said, "lies in the recognition by each party that an armed attack in the Pacific area upon one of its partners of the treaty would be dangerous to its peace and safety."

"Accordingly," said the secretary, "each declares that it would act to meet the common danger in accordance with its constitutional processes."

Things you'd like to know about your Railroad

THE CENTRAL IDEA

What's new for '52?

NEW YORK CENTRAL SYSTEM

1. HEADING UP the progress parade are still more smooth, clean new diesels. Enough are due in '52 to put New York Central's diesel-electric horsepower over the two and a quarter MILLION mark. Since the start of 1945, that will mean a three-fold increase for your Railroad.

2. SEVEN YARD GAIN! East and west, seven of your Railroad's key freight-switching yards are being enlarged and streamlined. New, longer tracks... scales that weigh cars while switching... new diesel service facilities. Progress in yards to put shipments miles ahead on New York Central!

3. GETTING THEIR LETTERS! Thousands more new freight cars will join New York Central's great transportation team this year. They'll bring your Railroad's new car total since 1945 to more than 59,000! Every one will do more work, too, thanks to Central's faster modern freight trains.

4. IN YOUR COMMUNITY and every other along New York Central's 11,000 miles, these improvements will mean still finer rail service. Fast, all-weather movement to market of the things you grow or make... dependable delivery of the things you buy or use. For that is the CENTRAL IDEA!

In these actual road tests of efficiency and performance, measured by the most accurate instruments obtainable, Chrysler proved itself superior to all others. In 13 tests Chrysler was first in 7—tied in 2, making a total of 9 out of 13... and first in total points!

Only by taking an engine to the limit of its potential, only by turning the corners at high speeds, applying brakes for emer-

The Motor Trend Award, like the numerous other honors today's Chrysler has won, is both a proof of and a tribute to Chrysler's magnificent FirePower engine and master engineering. Each demonstrates why, among men and women who know automobiles... Chrysler is always the first choice.

Infantrymen of Company F, 32nd Bucaconer Regiment, were engaged in a sharp battle with the Red interrupted.

"You guys can't sing!" Cpl. Felix Fratto of Salt Lake City, hollered back "you couldn't do any better."

Cpl. Earl Humphrey of Denver, and Cpl. James Rutherford of Inverhoo, Calif., agreed.

The Red then did a near professional job with "Tennessee Waltz."

But the company commander, Lt. Walter Kandel of Fitchburg, Mass., and executive officer, Lt. William Glenn of Portland, Ore., made a suggestion.

Soon the American troops were singing "God Bless America."

That silenced the Communist.

Help Her Help Herself

Four-year-old Frances Secor, of Nyack, N. Y., learns to raise herself up to her new crutches. The dimes and dollars contributed by Americans to the March of Dimes helped Frances and tens of thousands of other polio victims last year. Cases and costs have increased so tremendously that the March of Dimes has ended each of the past four years in debt. The 1952 March of Dimes is now underway across nation.

More Polio Talks Carded This Week

Three additional speakers who will talk on WKNY in behalf of the 1952 March of Dimes were announced this morning by Mrs. William E. Powers, Ulster county chapter chairman.

Tonight at 6:30 o'clock, Addison Jones, campaign director, will be heard.

On Wednesday at 1:30 p. m., Francis J. O'Neill, chairman of the polio committee, will be heard. On Thursday at 10:30 a. m., Lawrence MacAvery, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will make a radio address.

During the balance of the 1952 polio drive the following will be heard at different intervals on WKNY with talks supporting the campaign:

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, County Judge John M. Cashin, William F. Edelmut, the Rev. William Carner Cain, Rondout Presbyterian and Wurts Street Baptist Church; Rabbi Herbert Bloom, Temple Emanuel, the Rt. Rev. Stephen P. Connelly, St. Joseph's Church; the Rev. J. Dean Dykstra, president of the Rotary Club; Alvin Feuerstein, Lions Club; and Raymond Garraghan, Kiwanis Club.

This year's campaign for funds to fight polio is being conducted on a month's basis. The drive, which opened Jan. 21, will conclude Jan. 31.

Should Congress Be Televised? The Answer: Yes, No; Yes-No

By ARTHUR EDSON

Washington, Jan. 21 (AP)—Three congressmen have been warmly debating the question: "Should Congress Be Put on Television?" typically, they have come up with three answers: yes, no, yes-and-no.

The debate, prepared for a magazine put out by the Academy of Radio and Television Arts and Sciences, appears in the Congressional Record.

You, too, may have wondered why it's not possible to see congress in action (I use the word loosely), so let's have a look at the arguments:

Yes, emphatically, says Rep. Javits (R-NY). His view:

"We are arbitrarily limiting the scope of our democracy by not televising and broadcasting congressional sessions."

Even Javits won't go whole hog. He would limit television to major debate. This, he said, would bring enough additional information to the people to make for better government.

No, emphatically, says Senator Gillette (D-Iowa).

"Congress is a deliberative and legislative body," Gillette said. "It is not a theatre, a music hall or a sports arena."

He thinks television would be a distraction, and that Congress should stick to deliberating and legislating.

Yes and No

Yes, and no, says Senator Wiley (R-Mo.).

Wiley gets off to this glorious start:

"Congress, at least in some respects, provides perfect material for TV."

"The Senate and House have more drama than the most superb television playhouse, more newsworthiness than the most up-to-the-minute video television news reel, occasional humor to provide splendid refreshment for even light-minded onlookers, variety of subject matter to outmatch the finest variety show."

"I don't believe this is quite the way I would describe Congress, and after getting his breath back, Wiley seems to shy away from it, too."

He would like to see joint sessions of Congress televised as they are now, and important hearings, as they sometimes are now.

But Wiley foresees numerous difficulties in televising actual House and Senate debates. He faces one problem with admirable frankness.

"In the Senate," he said, "it would be difficult, if not impossible, to force a limitation on debate and thus prevent hogging of the TV camera."

And indeed it would.

Can Be Neutral

Since I don't own a television set, I can be neutral on this.

Some of the finest, most exciting moments I ever have had have come while watching Congress. But the average, routine session offers few lures for the television watching wanting a quick thrill.

A look at an average Senate day might be helpful.

On this average day the main items were (a) the introduction of a university military training bill, and (b) a discussion of a proposal for home rule for the voteless citizens of Washington.

As usual, the senators wandered all over the conventional lot.

The talk covered everything from the development of Kentucky's big Sandy River "including the Levisa and Tug Fork thereof," to the Japanese government, a reciprocal trade, to an investigation of the State Department, to a query from Telford O. Thompson of Hatton, N. D.

Thompson asked Senator Langer (R-ND): How can a farmer sell eggs for 25 cents a dozen when laying mash costs $4.39?

The talk went on and on, for four hours and 46 minutes.

But Wiley's standards, the Senate came in with only a 50-50 rating that day. The session certainly provided some news-worthiness, and heaven knows there was a variety of subject matter. But no superb drama, no occasional humor to furnish splendid refreshment for us light-minded on-lookers.

See what I mean? Am I too late for Kula, Fran and Ollie?

For Outperforming all other American Cars...

In the Grinding Tests that Won it the Motor Trend Magazine Award, Chrysler proved itself the Best Engineered Car in America

CHRYSLER SURPASSED ALL OTHERS WHEN MOTOR TREND TESTED FOR:

- ★ Average Braking Distance in Feet
- ★ Ton Miles per Gallon
- ★ Average Acceleration in Seconds
- ★ Acceleration Over Standing ¼ Mile in Seconds
- ★ Average Top Speed in M.P.H.
- ★ Maximum Road Horsepower
- ★ Pounds per Road Horsepower
- ★ Maximum Torque in Lbs.-Ft.
- ★ Maximum Brake Mean Effective Pressure
- ★ First in Total Points

15 different American stock automobiles—equipped as you buy them—were driven by Motor Trend Magazine as hard as steel and rubber can be driven. In these actual road tests of efficiency and performance, measured by the most accurate instruments obtainable, Chrysler proved itself superior to all others. In 13 tests Chrysler was first in 7—tied in 2, making a total of 9 out of 13 . . . and first in total points!

Only by taking an engine to the limit of its potential, only by turning the corners at high speeds, applying brakes for emergency stops, torturing body, springs and shock absorbers, can you learn just what performance you can expect from the make of car you drive. Results of the Motor Trend tests were conclusive . . . as Chrysler, again, proved itself the one best car in America. The Motor Trend Award, like the numerous other honors today's Chrysler has won, is both a proof of and a tribute to Chrysler's magnificent FirePower engine and master engineering. Each demonstrates why, among men and women who know automobiles . . . Chrysler is always the first choice.

1. HEADING UP the progress parade are still more smooth, clean new diesels. Enough are due in '52 to put New York Central's diesel-electric horsepower over the two and a quarter MILLION mark. Since the start of 1945, that will mean a three-fold increase for your Railroad.
2. SEVEN YARD GAIN! East and west, seven of your Railroad's key freight-switching yards are being enlarged and streamlined. New, longer tracks . . . scales that weigh cars while switching . . . new diesel service facilities. Progress in yards to put shipments miles ahead on New York Central!
3. GETTING THEIR LETTERS! Thousands more new freight cars will join New York Central's great transportation team this year. They'll bring your Railroad's new car total since 1945 to more than 59,000! Every one will do more work, too, thanks to Central's faster modern freight trains.
4. IN YOUR COMMUNITY and every other along New York Central's 11,000 miles, these improvements will mean still finer rail service. Fast, all-weather movement to market of the things you grow or make . . . dependable delivery of the things you buy or use. For that is the CENTRAL IDEA!

TORCH SWEATERS AND SWINDLES

The Freeman, which always has been on the side of the local merchant, has from time to time warned its readers in the city and county to beware of falling victim to the smooth, persistent, plausible itinerant peddler or salesman.

Another important lesson may well be learned by people in this area and also in other communities from the recent torch sweater episode. It was the same old story. The sweaters were of high value, but were being sold at bargain prices because the stranger was in a hurry or there were reasons of financial distress or something else.

What redress have the citizens who purchase sweaters or anything else from these fly-by-night businessmen? Absolutely no guarantee or protection at all. The fast talker is here today and away tomorrow. In contrast to this method of business, we have the local merchant, who is here today and will be here tomorrow and the next day ready and anxious to stand in back of everything he sells.

Better merchandise can be purchased in our local stores than you can buy from the itinerant peddler and your local merchant sells quality merchandise at prices that are not any higher than those in any other store handling goods of quality. Local stores are of particularly fine service to the people of Kingston and Ulster County. No longer do our residents have to go to Metropolitan centers or to depend upon peddlers for their shopping needs.

The beneficial effect to a community of buying from your local merchant should be apparent to all residents. Store owners are either taxpayers or rent payers, who furnish jobs and help pay the costs of city government. All business enterprises in the community benefit as trade increases. New businesses are started and old ones grow. New sources of taxation appear and local purchasing power expands.

Long experience has taught us to beware of the "bargain" offered by the itinerant peddler. In the case of the sweaters, we advise that if you have purchased one by no means wear it until you have submitted it for examination. If it turns out to be one of those funeral pyres, you will never wear it again.

ATTACKING THE VETO

The United Nations Security Council made its decision to intervene in Korea against Communist aggression at a time when Russia was boycotting the Council. Otherwise the action probably would not have been possible, since Russia would almost certainly have used the veto. Since then the General Assembly has diminished the powers of the Security Council sufficiently to enable the Assembly to take action in such a situation, overriding a veto. Now the Political and Security Committee has passed a resolution to give the General Assembly added strength, by calling on member nations to take preliminary steps so as to be ready to provide armed forces in support of a General Assembly action.

The effectiveness of the United Nations in maintaining peace depends on its ability to act as a unit to enforce its opposition to aggression. It is not right that one nation, using the veto power in the Security Council, should be able to frustrate the decisions of the majority. There are many who see the veto power given to the five permanent members of the Security Council as one of the weakest points in the U.N. organization.

Russia and its companions in the Soviet bloc opposed the resolution, but theirs were the only votes against it although three other nations abstained from voting. Therefore the passage of the resolution is a fresh defeat for Russia in the United Nations. It is a new indication of almost unanimous agreement, among the non-Communist nations, that the Russian veto should not be allowed to thwart the clear will of the majority of nations.

CIVIL LIBERTIES

In the long history of our people, more than 300 years upon this soil, the question of what is nowadays called "civil liberties" rarely arose. The normal American term for what is meant by "civil liberties" is the rights of the individual.

In the Declaration of Independence, this is stated in clear terms: "... That all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. . . ."

In the Constitution, about 24 such rights are guaranteed to each individual. These rights may be summarized as follows:

1. Right of the writ of habeas corpus.
2. Protection against the passage of bills of attainder and ex post facto laws.
3. Equality before the law by forbidding the creation of a titled class by prohibiting the Federal Government from granting titles of nobility.
4. Right to a speedy public trial in case of accusation of crime before an impartial jury at the place of commission of the crime.
5. Freedom of religion, press, speech, assembly, and petition.
6. Right to keep and bear arms for national defense.
7. Protection against the unlawful quartering of troops.
8. Right to Grand Jury indictment before trial for a crime, and to be confronted with witnesses, and to have the compulsory process to obtain witnesses and the assistance of counsel to establish innocence.
9. Protection against unreasonable searches and seizures.
10. Protection against self-incrimination in any trial or the giving of testimony.
11. "Protection against being twice placed in jeopardy of life or limb for crime."
12. Protection against cruel and unusual punishments and excessive bail.
13. Right to just compensation for any property taken for public use.
14. Right to trial by jury in civil cases.
15. Protection against being deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law.
16. Protection against the impairment of the obligations of contracts by the states.
17. Equal protection of the laws.
18. Guarantees of a republican form of government in the states in which a citizen resides.
19. Protection from slavery and involuntary servitude except as punishment for crime.
20. Protection from abridgment by the states of the privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States.
21. Right to hold public office under the United States if the citizen meets the statutory and constitutional qualifications.
22. Right to freedom of entrance into and exit from a state.
23. Protection from domestic violence and foreign invasion.
24. Protection from the abridgment of the right to vote by a state on account of race or sex.

The individual American lived, on the whole, peacefully, without much regard to his rights, which he took for granted. He lived and let others live, avoiding controversy on the subject.

In the Yale Law Journal appeared an article some time ago which began with the paragraph: "Those who look to the government for protection or gain have long recognized the comparative inadequacy of individual action. They have learned that government will best serve those who merge their efforts into effective organizations."

In a word, according to these lawyers, Americans do not enjoy their constitutional rights, privileges and immunities unless a pressure group fights for them. This cannot be established as true in the whole American history, although those who are excited about "civil liberties" usually begin their American history sometime around 1933, as though nothing had happened before then.

Actually, the pressure groups generalize from the particular, accepting an evasion or rights or an imposition of mob rule, or any other civic impropriety as normal to American life. It is much like assuming that the smoking of marijuana is normal to American life because a few dopes engage in it. They declare the abnormal to be normal and by such twists of fact and logic create confusion in our midst.

MEASURING BLOOD PRESSURE

Recently, at a meeting of medical examiners for life insurance companies, it was agreed that the estimates of blood pressure for healthy men applying for life insurance were placed too low and that an allowance of 140 systolic and 80 diastolic should be changed to about 160/90. It was pointed out that the time of day and nearness to last meal eaten before the examination were also important factors.

Because there are so many cases of coronary thrombosis heart stroke and apoplexy, a brain stroke, occurring in middle-aged men, research workers on high blood pressure (the underlying cause in most cases) are investigating the blood pressure readings of many healthy middle-aged men. They recommend that the requirements at present demand a pressure that is really lower than necessary, causing many healthy men to live a nervous or invalid life to keep their blood pressure low.

Another finding that will be of interest to all physicians and to those whose blood pressure is at or above the present limits for applicants for life insurance is reported in the Canadian Medical Association Journal by Drs. J. B. Osbaldeston and C. K. Stuart, Hamilton, Ontario. "It has been noted by various observers that the position of the arm will affect the blood pressure reading. Instead of having the arm rest on a table or desk, or hang down at the side, the arm was held in the horizontal position in line with the shoulder. Such a position is one that anyone taking the pressures can readily estimate and so avoid a standard. Also, this position is always in the same relation to the base of the heart whether the subject is lying down or standing up."

"When the patient was sitting or standing, the arm was supported by the operator in the horizontal position." The patients used in this study as normal controls included random admissions to the surgical wards, internes and nurses. The remainder was made up of patients in the out-patient clinics and the hospital wards.

The first group of 25 normal individuals showed that when the pressure was taken in a sitting position with arm hanging down at side, average pressure was 117 systolic and 78 diastolic, whereas in the horizontal position it was 105 systolic and 66 diastolic. Patient standing, arm hanging down, was 116 systolic and 77 diastolic.

In hospital patients the pressures were likewise higher in the hanging or dependent position than in the horizontal position, 134/86 and 135/76.

'Round and 'Round We Go

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Only two people knew exactly what happened during 30 minutes when President Truman and the man who may take over the leadership of the Democratic party — Kefauver of Tennessee — met together at the White House. However, part of what they said has become known to intimates, and here is a brief summary of what happened.

What Senator Kefauver did not know was that congressional friends of Speaker Sam Rayburn, who not only want Sam to run for president but are jealous of their old Tennessee colleague in the House of Representatives, had carefully arranged to plant some anti-Kefauver poison with Mr. Truman.

They had Congressman Mike Kirwan, of Youngstown, Ohio, one of the most astute Democrats on Capitol Hill, call on the President just a few minutes before the Kefauver appointment for the purpose of prejudicing the president.

Regardless of what Kirwan may have told Truman, it had no outward effect. For when the tall senator from Tennessee entered, the President was more cordial.

Kefauver was just as modest as Truman was genial. Probably he did not know about the strategy to prejudice the President, but, if he had known, his strategy could not have been better.

In his usual slow Tennessee drawl, Kefauver recalled that he had always supported the Truman program, had gone down the line on a lot of controversial problems, even going further than any other southern senator on Civil Rights.

Kefauver Asks Advice
The President acknowledged that Kefauver's records was good, though they had disagreed on a few issues. The Tennessee senator then came to the point—he was being urged to run for the Democratic nomination and, in justice to his friends, he would have to make a public statement fairly soon.

The President said he would like to see Kefauver's records, but he would not say he would "understand."

Atomic Feud
The army carried a wooden box to Capitol Hill last week and carefully unveiled it behind the closed doors of the congressional atomic energy committee.

Inside was a small-scale model of a giant atomic bomber capable of firing atomic artillery shells. The actual gun is so large that it must be hauled by train.

Backstage between the army and air force a hot battle has been brewing over the use of atomic artillery and baby A-bombs. Actually, the smaller an atomic bomb is, the more fissionable material it requires and the more it costs to produce. Therefore the air force argues that their stockpile of atomic bombs isn't large enough to permit us to waste fissionable material on small A-bombs and artillery shells. Instead the air force argues that one of its bombers can deliver an A-bomb anywhere that atomic artillery can fire. It also argues that the risk of keeping atomic artillery close to the front is too great.

The army replies that small atomic missiles are easier to deliver and that atomic artillery has an added morale value. So far, the army has been winning out.

Mailbag
G. Y. Bladenburg, Md.—The blood plasma recently shipped to Argentina did not come from people who donate voluntarily to the Red Cross. This was "commercial blood" sold to Sharpe and Dohme, a pharmaceutical house, by professional donors who were paid by the drug firm. The army will not buy this commercial plasma, but only accepts blood donated through the Red Cross.

So this material was not being diverted from troops in Korea. Furthermore, only 29.8 pounds of plasma was shipped, not a ton, as stated in newspaper accounts. . . . The erroneous estimate of a ton of blood came from the fact that a saline solution and other material necessary for the administration of the plasma accompanied the Argentine shipment. The government has strict rules governing the shipment of this commercial blood out of the country, and only a limited amount can be exported in any one period, none of which can go to Russia or its satellites.

Crime Cleanup
For the first time in years the crime-ridden District of Columbia is getting a good going over. Credit for cleanup goes to a lot of people: Fortnight Sen. Matt Neely of West Virginia who hasn't pulled a single punch. . . . Arnold Bauman, the hard-hitting New York attorney whom Neely put in charge of the cleanup. . . . Also Russ Wiggins, relentless managing editor of the Washington Post, who kept pounding away at the Washington police and crime situation until someone had to act. . . . Previously U. S. Attorney Maury Fay made a sincere effort to spotlight the gambling racket here, but got the run-around from the police hierarchy. Now Neely-Bauman-Wiggins have outmaneuvered gift-accepting police chief Bob Barrett, euchring him into a position where he resigned. . . . When Congressman James Davis of Stone Mountain, Ga., was put in charge of a D. C. crime cleanup not long ago, he fizzled. The senator who continually asks questions aimed at helping delinquent police is Welker of Idaho.

Paris—If you put your mind to it you can easily realize that President Truman's threat to shower General Eisenhower with rotten eggs and mud if he accepts a presidential nomination from the Republican party has created a very uncomfortable situation at the supreme headquarters of the allied powers in Europe. The general is now a declared political opponent of the President, but with that understood, you must realize that the supreme commander in this soulful, spiritual effort to make many young men of many nations in a crusade that may demand the sacrifice of their lives, is also the enemy of the President.

Truman never tolerates political opponents. His opponents always are enemies. He is a free-style fighter on the order of Ty Cobb in his formidable prime. Ty fought by back-room rules. Billy Evans, the umpire, a stylish boxer and a game young fellow, met Ty by appointment under the Washington grandstand after a routine row in a ball game and had barely got his attitude before he found himself on the ground. Ty, at his throat, choking him with his necktie and poking his skull against the concrete base of a steel pillar. Ty fought for keeps and so does Truman, so, with Truman in it, this must be a dirty fight.

With the exceptions of Huey Long and Andrew Jackson, Truman is the most ferocious rough-and-tumble brawler in our presidential history. He lacks Long's amazing intelligence and cleverness but he shares to the utmost Huey's abandon in hurling lies, dirty insinuations and insults and these undoubtedly were what he had in mind when he spoke of rotten eggs and mud. Who else would hurl the rotten eggs and mud? How could he speak for any other Democratic candidate but Truman? S. Truman has Jackson's strange cruelty but it is a snarling nastiness whereas Old Hickory was a frontiersman in an age of personal politics. And, of course, he is absolutely

British Foreign Office Has Given Churchill Figurative Stab in Back on U. S. Cooperation

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 21 — Just as Americans were beginning to feel a sense of relief that Great Britain and the United States were working together in their policies toward Korea and Red China, the British foreign office has thrown a monkey wrench into the machinery.

This comes at a time when almost everybody here was feeling enthusiastic about the success of Prime Minister Churchill's mission and about the splendid impression he made.

For the British foreign office has not only disheartened many Americans but it has also stabbed the Prime Minister in the back and cast doubt on his ability to make good on the pledges he so firmly gave to the American government.

The British Prime Minister told Congress last week: "Our two countries are agreed that if the truce we seek is reached only to be broken, our response will be prompt, resolute, and effective."

Here was a warning that the Communists could not possibly misunderstand. They had been counting on the division between Britain and America over Korean policy. They have been successful in the past in driving a wedge between the two countries based on the unwise recognition of the Communist regime in China by Britain in the first place. Now, at the moment when the warning words of Churchill were calculated to show the Communists that Britain and America stood together, the British foreign office pulls the rug from under the feet of both governments and weakens the hand of the UN negotiators who are trying to work out an armistice calling for the return of prisoners and at the same time carrying the assurance that the flow of blood—largely American—will cease.

If the Communists had agents in the British foreign office they could not have done more than was accomplished in diluting the strength of the Churchill pledge. It revives in Congress impressions that the British are tricky—which impressions Mr. Churchill has done so much to dispel. It was certainly giving aid and comfort to the enemy at a crucial moment.

Various dispatches reflected the foreign office viewpoint. Thus the London correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune described the heretofore of the foreign office spokesman with the press as follows:

"It was explained here that Mr. Churchill's statement was not intended as a blanket approval for any action which the United States might like to adopt in retaliation for a Communist violation of a Korean truce. Britain, it was explained, has not finally agreed to any specific action, and adheres to the principle of prior consultation and agreement before any new action is taken."

"At the same time, Mr. Churchill's statement was said to have been intended as a warning to Communist China that Britain will not necessarily withhold approval of any forceful action proposed by the United States, such as direct air attack on China proper, in the event that a truce is violated."

This is the kind of double talk which not only confuses Americans but encourages the Communist negotiators to believe that they can break a truce and there will be a prolonged palaver about it such as has been going on for months in the Korean negotiations. It also misleads. For the implication there is that if a truce is broken, the United States alone would plan to take action and the British in their own time would give it lukewarm consideration. The truth is that all the representatives of the 12 nations which have troops in Korea meet regularly in Washington and when a decision is made it is the agreement of all UN nations and not America alone.

There were such meetings last week to explore a future course of action in Korea if the truce were not honored and it is to be presumed the British prime minister knew the nature of those agreements. Certainly this is top-secret stuff on the military side and it becomes the British Foreign Office to tell the enemy that no agreement has been reached or that the pledge given by the British prime minister doesn't really mean what it says and is subject to future debate and revision. This isn't the first time the foreign office has disclosed prematurely allied intentions on military operations in Korea.

Some Americans will doubtless infer now that the British Foreign Office has in men in sympathy with the attitude of the "left wing" of the British Labor party which has always wanted the allies to quit Korea and make a peace at any price. Or it could mean that under pressure of British Labor politics, anticipating a partisan political attack on the prime minister when he gets home, the foreign office is trying to throw the partisans off the track and tell them that nothing really has been agreed to and that they will still have a chance to argue about it.

The net effect is to reassure the Communist negotiators in Korea that the solidarity of the allies is merely a paper proposition and that actually it doesn't mean very much more.

Maybe the prime minister will look into all this when he gets home. Meanwhile the blood of American and British and other troops in Korea will continue to be shed as the disunited nations lumber along with an enemy ready to take advantage of such division and dissension instead of impressing it by policies of firmness and unity.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Paris—If you put your mind to it you can easily realize that President Truman's threat to shower General Eisenhower with rotten eggs and mud if he accepts a presidential nomination from the Republican party has created a very uncomfortable situation at the supreme headquarters of the allied powers in Europe. The general is now a declared political opponent of the President, but with that understood, you must realize that the supreme commander in this soulful, spiritual effort to make many young men of many nations in a crusade that may demand the sacrifice of their lives, is also the enemy of the President.

Truman never tolerates political opponents. His opponents always are enemies. He is a free-style fighter on the order of Ty Cobb in his formidable prime. Ty fought by back-room rules. Billy Evans, the umpire, a stylish boxer and a game young fellow, met Ty by appointment under the Washington grandstand after a routine row in a ball game and had barely got his attitude before he found himself on the ground. Ty, at his throat, choking him with his necktie and poking his skull against the concrete base of a steel pillar. Ty fought for keeps and so does Truman, so, with Truman in it, this must be a dirty fight.

With the exceptions of Huey Long and Andrew Jackson, Truman is the most ferocious rough-and-tumble brawler in our presidential history. He lacks Long's amazing intelligence and cleverness but he shares to the utmost Huey's abandon in hurling lies, dirty insinuations and insults and these undoubtedly were what he had in mind when he spoke of rotten eggs and mud. Who else would hurl the rotten eggs and mud? How could he speak for any other Democratic candidate but Truman? S. Truman has Jackson's strange cruelty but it is a snarling nastiness whereas Old Hickory was a frontiersman in an age of personal politics. And, of course, he is absolutely

TORCH SWEATERS AND SWINDLES

The Freeman, which always has been on the side of the local merchant, has from time to time warned its readers in the city and county to beware of falling victim to the smooth, persistent, plausible itinerant peddler or salesman.

Another important lesson may well be learned by people in this area and also in other communities from the recent torch sweater episode. It was the same old story. The sweaters were of high value, but were being sold at bargain prices because the stranger was in a hurry or there were reasons of financial distress or something else.

What redress have the citizens who purchase sweaters or anything else from these fly-by-night businessmen? Absolutely no guarantee or protection at all. The fast talker is here today and away tomorrow. In contrast to this method of business, we have the local merchant, who is here today and will be here tomorrow and the next day ready and anxious to stand in back of everything he sells.

Better merchandise can be purchased in our local stores than you can buy from the itinerant peddler and your local merchant sells quality merchandise at prices that are not any higher than those in any other store handling goods of quality. Local stores are of particularly fine service to the people of Kingston and Ulster County. No longer do our residents have to go to Metropolitan centers or to depend upon peddlers for their shopping needs.

The beneficial effect to a community of buying from your local merchant should be apparent to all residents. Store owners are either taxpayers or rent payers, who furnish jobs and help pay the costs of city government. All business enterprises in the community benefit as trade increases. New businesses are started and old ones grow. New sources of taxation appear and local purchasing power expands.

Long experience has taught us to beware of the "bargain" offered by the itinerant peddler. In the case of the sweaters, we advise that if you have purchased one by no means wear it until you have submitted it for examination. If it turns out to be one of those funeral pyres, you will never wear it again.

ATTACKING THE VETO

The United Nations Security Council made its decision to intervene in Korea against Communist aggression at a time when Russia was boycotting the Council. Otherwise the action probably would not have been possible, since Russia would almost certainly have used the veto. Since then the General Assembly has diminished the powers of the Security Council sufficiently to enable the Assembly to take action in such a situation, overriding a veto. Now the Political and Security Committee has passed a resolution to give the General Assembly added strength, by calling on member nations to take preliminary steps so as to be ready to provide armed forces in support of a General Assembly action.

The effectiveness of the United Nations in maintaining peace depends on its ability to act as a unit to enforce its opposition to aggression. It is not right that one nation, using the veto power in the Security Council, should be able to frustrate the decisions of the majority. There are many who see the veto power given to the five permanent members of the Security Council as one of the weakest points in the U.N. organization.

Russia and its companions in the Soviet bloc opposed the resolution, but theirs were the only votes against it although three other nations abstained from voting. Therefore the passage of the resolution is a fresh defeat for Russia in the United Nations. It is a new indication of almost unanimous agreement, among the non-Communist nations, that the Russian veto should not be allowed to thwart the clear will of the majority of nations.

There are times when the old saying that there is nothing new under the sun seems particularly true. Scientists have developed

CIVIL LIBERTIES

In the long history of our people, more than 300 years upon this soil, the question of what is nowadays called "civil liberties" rarely arose. The normal American term for what is meant by "civil liberties" is the rights of the individual.

In the Declaration of Independence, this is stated in clear terms: "... That all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. ..."

In the Constitution, about 24 such rights are guaranteed to each individual. These rights may be summarized as follows:

1. Right of the writ of habeas corpus.
2. Protection against the passage of bills of attainder and ex post facto laws.
3. Equality before the law by forbidding the creation of a titled class by prohibiting the Federal Government from granting titles of nobility.
4. Right to a speedy public trial in case of accusation of crime before an impartial jury at the place of commission of the crime.
5. Freedom of religion, press, speech, assembly, and petition.
6. Right to keep and bear arms for national defense.
7. Protection against the unlawful quartering of troops.
8. Right to Grand Jury indictment before trial for a crime, and to be confronted with witnesses, and to have the compulsory process to obtain witnesses and the assistance of counsel to establish innocence.
9. Protection against unreasonable searches and seizures.
10. Protection against self-incrimination in any trial or the giving of testimony.
11. "Protection against being twice placed in jeopardy of life or limb for crime."
12. Protection against cruel and unusual punishments and excessive bail.
13. Right to just compensation for any property taken for public use.
14. Right to trial by jury in civil cases.
15. Protection against being deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law.
16. Protection against the impairment of the obligations of contracts by the states.
17. Equal protection of the laws.
18. Guarantees of a republican form of government in the state in which a citizen resides.
19. Protection from slavery and involuntary servitude except as punishment for crime.
20. Protection from abridgment by the states of the privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States.
21. Right to hold public office under the United States if the citizen meets the statutory and constitutional qualifications.
22. Right to freedom of entrance into and exit from a state.
23. Protection from domestic violence and foreign invasion.
24. Protection from the abridgment of the right to vote by a state on account of race or sex.

The individual American lived, on the whole, peacefully, without much regard to his rights, liberty, or property without due process of law. He avoided controversy on the subject.

In the Yale Law Journal appeared an article some time ago which began with the paragraph: "Those who look to the government for protection or gain have long recognized the comparative inadequacy of individual action. They have learned that government will best serve those who merge their efforts into effective organizations."

In a word, according to these lawyers, Americans do not enjoy their constitutional rights, privileges and immunities unless a pressure group fights for them. This cannot be established as true in the whole American history, although those who are excited about "civil liberties" usually begin their American history sometime around 1933, as though nothing had happened before then.

Actually, the pressure groups generalize from the particular, accepting an evasion or rights or an imposition of mob rule, or any other civic impiety as normal to American life. It is much like assuming that the smoking of marijuana is normal to American life because a few doctors engage in it. They declare the abnormal to be normal and by such twists of fact and logic create confusion in our midst.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

MEASURING BLOOD PRESSURE

Recently, at a meeting of medical examiners for life insurance companies, it was agreed that the estimates of blood pressure for healthy men applying for life insurance were placed too low and that an allowance of 140 systolic and 80 diastolic should be changed to about 160/90. It was pointed out that this time of day and the stress of the examination before the examination were also important factors.

Because there are so many cases of coronary thrombosis heart stroke and apoplexy (brain stroke) occurring in middle-aged men, research workers on high blood pressure (the underlying cause in most cases) are investigating the blood pressure readings of many healthy middle-aged men. They recommend that the requirements at present demand a pressure that is really lower than necessary, causing many healthy men to live a nervous or invalid life to keep their blood pressure low.

Another finding that will be of interest to all physicians and to those whose blood pressure is at or above the present limits for applicants for life insurance is reported in the Canadian Medical Association Journal by Drs. J. B. Osbaldeston and C. K. Stuart, Hamilton, Ontario. "It has been noted by various observers that the position of the arm will affect the blood pressure reading. Instead of having the arm rest on a table or desk, or hang down at the side, the arm was held in the horizontal position in line with the shoulder. Such a position is one that anyone taking the pressures can readily estimate and so create a standard. Also, this position is always in the same relation to the base of the heart whether the subject is lying down or standing up."

"When the patient was sitting or standing, the arm was supported by the operator in the horizontal position." The patients used in this study as normal controls included random admissions to the surgical wards, internes and nurses. The remainder was made up of patients in the out-patient clinics and the hospital wards.

The first group of 25 normal individuals showed that when the pressure was taken in a sitting position with arm hanging down at side, average pressure was 117 systolic and 78 diastolic, whereas in the horizontal position it was 105 systolic and 66 diastolic. Patient standing, arm hanging down, was 116 systolic and 77 diastolic.

In hospital patients the pressures were likewise higher in the hanging or dependent position than in the horizontal position, 134/86 and 135/76.

'Round and 'Round We Go

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington — Only two people knew exactly what happened during 30 minutes when President Truman and the man who may take over the leadership of the Democratic party — Kefauver of Tennessee — met together at the White House. However, part of what they said has become known to intimates, and here is a brief summary of what happened.

What Senator Kefauver did not know was that congressional friends of Speaker Sam Rayburn, who not only want Sam to run for president but are jealous of their old Tennessee colleague in the House of Representatives, had carefully arranged to plant some anti-Kefauver poison with Mr. Truman.

They had Congressman Mike Kirwan, of Youngstown, Ohio, one of the most astute Democrats on Capitol Hill, call on the President just a few minutes before the Kefauver appointment for the purpose of prejudicing the president.

Regardless of what Kirwan may have told Truman, it had no outward effect. For when the tall senator from Tennessee entered, the President was more cordial.

Kefauver was just as modest as Truman was genial. Probably he did not know about the strategy to prejudice the President, but if he had known, his strategy could not have been better.

In his usual slow Tennessee drawl, Kefauver recalled that he had always supported the Truman program, had gone down the line on a lot of controversial problems, even going further than any other southern senator on Civil Rights.

Kefauver Asks Advice

The President acknowledged that Kefauver's records were good, though they had disagreed on a few issues. The Tennessee senator then came to the point—he was being urged to run for the Democratic nomination and, in justice to his friends, he would have to make a public statement fairly soon.

Therefore, he said, he would like to have the President's advice. From this point on, Mr. Truman did most of the talking. He said that the Democratic party needed new blood and he welcomed "young Democrats" into national politics. His attitude was friendly, almost fatherly. He thanked Kefauver for his candor.

The senator explained during their conversation that he faced the deadline of February 6 in Ohio, where his supporters wanted to enter his name in the Democratic primary.

Personal letters from Kefauver authorizing primary delegates to support him are now in the hands of Timothy Hogan, Cincinnati Democratic leader, but Hogan has been instructed by Kefauver not to make public these letters before Feb. 1.

"As the leader of our party, you have every right to know about my plans," Mr. President, declared the crime-hustling senator, explaining that, despite newspaper speculation, this was the first time he had flatly stated his intentions outside his own family.

In brief, Kefauver clearly indicated that he would run. At no time, however, did the President tip off his own political plans, and Kefauver did not guess him.

As the meeting closed, the President stressed the point: "There will be no differences between us . . . whatever you do will be with my understanding."

In other words, Truman did not give Kefauver his blessing, but did say he would "understand."

Atomic Feud

The army carried a wooden box to Capitol Hill last week and carefully unveiled it behind the closed doors of the congressional atomic energy committee.

Inside was a small-scale model of a giant atomic bombwitzer capable of firing atomic artillery shells. The actual gun is so large that it must be hauled by train.

Backstage between the army and air force a hot battle has been brewing over the use of atomic artillery and baby A-bombs. Actually, the smaller atomic bomb is the more fissionable material it requires, and the more it costs to produce. Therefore the air force argues that our stockpile of atomic bombs isn't large enough to permit us to waste fissionable material on small A-bombs and artillery shells. Instead the air force argues that one of its bombers can deliver an A-bomb anywhere that atomic artillery can fire. It also argues that the risk of keeping atomic artillery close to the front is too great.

The army replies that small atomic missiles are easier to deliver and that atomic artillery has an added morale value. So far, the army has been winning out.

Mailbag

G. Y. Bladensburg, Md.—The blood plasma recently shipped to Argentina did not come from people who donate voluntarily to the Red Cross. This was "commercial blood" sold to Sharpe and Dohme, a pharmaceutical house, by professional donors who were paid by the drug firm. The army will not buy this commercial plasma, but only accepts blood donated through the Red Cross.

So this material was not being diverted from troops in Korea. . . . Furthermore, only 29.8 pounds of plasma was shipped, not a ton, as stated in newspaper accounts. . . . The erroneous estimate of a ton of blood came from the fact that a saline solution and other material necessary for the administration of the plasma accompanied the Argentine shipment.

The government has strict rules governing the shipment of this commercial blood out of the country, and only a limited amount can be exported in any one period, none of which can go to Russia or its satellites.

Crime Cleanup

For the first time in years the crime-ridden District of Columbia is getting a good going over. Credit for cleanup goes to a lot of people: Fortright Sen. Matt Neely of West Virginia, who hasn't pulled a single punch. . . . Arnold Bauman, the hard-hitting New York attorney whom Neely put in charge of the cleanup. . . . Also Russ Wiggins, relentless managing editor of the Washington Post, who kept pounding away at the Washington police and crime situation until someone had to act. . . . Previously U. S. Attorney Maury Ray made a sincere effort to spotlight the gambling racket here, but got the run-around from the police hierarchy. Now Neely-Bauman-Wiggins have outmaneuvered gift-accepting police chief Bob Barrett, euchering him into a position where he resigned. . . . When Congressman James Davis of Stone Mountain, Ga., was put in charge of a D. C. crime cleanup not long ago, he fizzled. The senator who continually asks questions aimed at helping delinquent police is Welker of Idaho.

British Foreign Office Has Given Churchill Figurative Stab in Back on U. S. Cooperation

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Jan. 21 — Just as Americans were beginning to feel a sense of relief that Great Britain and the United States were working together in their policies toward Korea and Red China, the British foreign office has thrown a monkey wrench into the machinery.

This comes at a time when almost everybody here was feeling enthusiastic about the success of Prime Minister Churchill's mission and about the splendid impression he made.

For the British foreign office has not only disheartened many Americans but it has also stabbed the Prime Minister in the back and cast doubt on his ability to make good on the pledges he so firmly gave to the American government.

The British Prime Minister told Congress last week: "Our two countries are agreed that if the truce we seek is reached only to be broken, our response will be prompt, resolute, and effective."

Here was a warning that the Communists could not possibly misunderstand. They had been counting on the division between Britain and America over Korean policy. They have been successful in the past in driving a wedge between the two countries based on the unwise recognition of the Communist regime in China by Britain in the first place. Now, at the moment when the warning words of Churchill were calculated to show the Communists that Britain and America stood together, the British foreign office pulls the rug from under the feet of both governments and weakens the hand of the UN negotiators who are trying to work out an armistice calling for the return of prisoners and at the same time carrying the assurance that the flow of blood—largely American—will cease.

If the Communists had agents in the British foreign office they could not have done more than was accomplished in diluting the strength of the Churchill pledge. It revises in Congress impressions that the British are sincere, which impressions Mr. Churchill has done so much to dispel. It was certainly giving aid and comfort to the enemy at a crucial moment.

Various dispatches reflected the foreign office viewpoint. Thus the London correspondent of the New York Herald Tribune described the conference of the foreign office spokesmen with the press as follows:

"It was explained here that Mr. Churchill's statement was not intended as a blanket approval for any action which the United States might like to adopt in retaliation for a Communist violation of a Korean truce. Britain, it was explained, has not finally agreed to any specific action, but adheres to the principle of prior consultation and agreement before any new action is taken."

"At the same time, Mr. Churchill's statement was said to have been intended as a warning to Communist China that Britain will not necessarily withhold approval of any forceful action proposed by the United States, such as direct air attack on China proper, in the event that a truce is violated."

This is the kind of double talk which not only confuses Americans but encourages the Communists to believe that they can break a truce and there will be a prolonged palaver about it such as has been going on for months in the Korean negotiations. It also misleads. For the implication there is that if a truce is broken, the United States alone would plan to take action and the British in their own time would give it lukewarm consideration. The truth is that all the representatives of the 12 nations which have troops in Korea meet regularly in Washington and when a decision is made it is the agreement of all UN nations and not America alone.

There were such meetings last week to expose a future course of action in Korea if the truce were not honored and it is to be presumed the British prime minister knew the nature of those agreements. Certainly this is top-secret stuff on the military and political side. Anticipating a British Foreign Office to tell the enemy that no agreement has been reached or that the pledge given by the British prime minister doesn't really mean what it says and is subject to future debate and revision. This isn't the first time the foreign office has disclosed prematurely allied intentions on military operations in Korea.

Some Americans will doubtless infer now that the British Foreign Office has in it men in sympathy with the attitude of the "left wing" of the British Labor party which has always wanted the allies to quit Korea and make a peace at any price. Or it could mean that under pressure of British Labor politics, anticipating a partisan political attack on the prime minister when he gets home, the foreign office is trying to throw the partisans off the track and tell them that nothing really has been agreed to and that they will still have a chance to argue about it.

The net effect is to reassure the Communist negotiators in Korea that the solidarity of the allies is merely a paper proposition and that actually it doesn't mean very much more. Maybe the prime minister will look into all this when he gets home. Meanwhile the blood of American and British and other troops in Korea will continue to be shed as the disunited nations try along with an enemy ready to take advantage of such division and dissension instead of impressing them by policies of firmness and unity.

Questions — Answers

Q—How do birds know when to fly south?

A—This is still an unsolved problem, though one theory is that birds are sensitive to the changing amount of light and length of the day as autumn comes. Similarly in the spring they may possibly detect the increasing light and length of the day as the sun climbs higher again.

Q—When does the Suez Canal concession of the French-British company expire?

Overflow Crowd Enjoys Sixth Marine Ball; $500 Is Realized for Kingston Boys' Club

Approximately $500 in proceeds were realized for the Kingston Boys' Club from the sixth annual Marine Ball and stage show sponsored by Ulster Detachment of the Marine Corps League at the Elks' Club Saturday night, Albert J. Melville, general co-chairman, reported today.

An overflow crowd jammed the Fair street club rooms to witness six-act all star program of entertainment and later danced to the music of Don Pierson's orchestra.

General comment following the affair was that the sixth annual program was one of the finest in history.

Melville Honored

Melville, who proudly announced that the Boys' Club would receive about $500 from the ball program, was doubly honored during the ball.

As past commandant, Melville was presented with a past commandant's pin from Edward J. Esposito, present commandant.

Later, Melville was presented with a citation of merit from T. Sgt. Charles W. Awkerman, Pacific war veteran, who is now the local marine recruiter.

The citation, which was presented to Melville, was in honor of his work as past commandant. Authorized by an act of Congress, the citation read as follows:

"Be it known that this citation has been awarded to Ulster Detachment in appreciation of loyalty and devotion to your country, to your community and the Marine Corps League and for increasing your membership for the year 1950-51." The citation, as signed by J. J. Hovel, commandant, was awarded July 15, 1951, at the state convention in Utica.

John Ray Mayone, general co-chairman of the ball, with Melville, opened the program with a word of welcome to the assemblage and later introduced several personalities including Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk, Nicholas Cosmo, Kingston Boys' Club; James Krom, Kingston Veterans' Association; the Rev. Robert T. Shellenbarger, St. Joseph's Episcopal Church, who is chaplain of Ulster Detachment; Robert Scanlon, senior vice-commandant of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; T. Sgt. Awkerman, Commandant Esposito and Jimmy Daley, who arranged the entertainment program.

With Olive Boyde as mistress of ceremonies, the all star show proceeded at a fast pace.

Miss Boyde, who presented songs in a La Sophie Tucker manner, thrilled the crowd with such songs as My Man, Summer-time, St. Louis Blues, Dinah and Some of These Days.

One of the best received acts featured George and Ruth Ross in their harmonica specialty act. Current stars on NBC-TV, the duo entertained with several harmonicas, of all sizes, including a homemade instrument. George Ross brought the house down with his The Thing, a makeshift musical instrument which gave out music very much resembling Spike Jones.

The Thing, a contraption which certainly entailed much imagination, included balloons of all shapes and sizes, a flash camera, pin-wheel and other incidentals. George and Ruth Ross, while pleasing with their harmonica music, also displayed much finesse with the art of blowing balloons into shapes of dogs, a giraffe and other sundry articles.

The rest of the entertainment included Jackie Small, Mr. Rhythm Himself in Tops in Taps; Novelties by the One and Only, Phil Williston, billed as the "Mad" Magician; Freda and Rogers, the Italian ambassadors of Laughter; and pretty Sherry O'Neil, who entertained with comedy songs and dances.

Marine Vet Welcomed

Charles Tyree, a former Kingston resident, who now makes his home in Baltimore, Md., just back from service in Korea, was introduced to the crowd.

In addition to Commandant Esposito and the general chairmen, others working on the ball committee included James E. Cave, Paul Bonesteel, John Lang, Albert J. Ross, Wendell Scherer, Harold E. Machold, Augustus Brinnier, Jr., Sheldon F. O'Rourke, Thomas Finnerty, Robert S. Badian, Peter J. Mancuso, Frank Cronk, Eugene Barkow, Joseph Naccarato, G. Albert Nussbaum and Stephen Kramer.

Good Taste Today

AN UNREASONABLE DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

Unhappily, the following situation is all too frequently encountered: "I have a very charming daughter-in-law except for one thing—she is altogether too possessive of my son! She resents his writing to me, but she especially resents any letter or message I send him without her name on the envelope or in the salutation. There are times when I can write more intimately just to him about family, neighborhood and business affairs than I can in a letter to both, since she would not know what I was talking about. Possibly, too, once in awhile I like to feel that I have my son alone, even if only through a letter."

In answer, I might quote the old adage, "A daughter is a daughter all the days of her life, a son's a son until he gets him a wife." To a great extent this is not an exaggeration and it does almost always take an enormous amount of tact on the part of a mother of a married son. Begin your letter with "Dear John and Mary," go on with what you have to say to John and then at the end make a comment to Mary. This seems to me the happiest way out.

When He Calls Himself Mr.

Dear Mrs. Post: To settle a long-standing argument, will you please tell me if it is proper for a man, when announcing himself on the telephone, to say, "This is Mr. Jones speaking?" In other words, should the "Mr." be used?

Answer: Unless he is old enough to be her father, or even grandfather, a man calling a woman on the telephone, should announce himself as "Mr." He would say, "This is John Jones."

But a man calling a woman on business says, "This is Mr. Jones of Blank & Co." If he were calling a businessman, he would be likely to say, "This is Jones of Blank & Co."

Unbelievably Shocking!

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it permissible for the bride's attendants to wear strapless dresses if the wedding is not taking place in church?

Answer: Strapless dresses would be impossible. After all, no matter where it is solemnized, the marriage service is a religious ceremony.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but if you are planning to have a small home wedding and would like to know how to decorate the home and know other details you will find Mrs. Post's letter F-8 helpful. AN UNREASONABLE DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

Unhappily, the following situation is all too frequently encountered: "I have a very charming daughter-in-law except for one thing—she is altogether too possessive of my son! She resents his writing to me, but she especially resents any letter or message I send him without her name on the envelope or in the salutation. There are times when I can write more intimately just to him about family, neighborhood and business affairs than I can in a letter to both, since she would not know what I was talking about. Possibly, too, once in awhile I like to feel that I have my son alone, even if only through a letter."

In answer, I might quote the old adage, "A daughter's a daughter all the days of her life, a son's a son until he gets him a wife." To a great extent this is not an exaggeration and it does almost always take an enormous amount of tact on the part of a mother of a married son. Begin your letter with "Dear John and Mary," go on with what you have to say to John and then at the end make a comment to Mary. This seems to me the happiest way out.

When He Calls Himself Mr.
Dear Mrs. Post: To settle a long-standing argument, will you please tell me if it is proper for a man, when announcing himself on the telephone, to say, "This is Mr. Jones speaking?" In other words, should the "Mr." be used?

Answer: Unless he is old enough to be her father or even grandfather, a man calling a woman whom he knows socially never, under any circumstances, would announce himself as "Mr." He would say, "This is John Jones."

But a man calling a woman on business says, "This is Mr. Jones of Blank & Co."

Unbelievably Shocking!
Dear Mrs. Post: Is it permissible for the bride's attendants to wear strapless dresses if the wedding is not taking place in church?

Answer: Strapless dresses would be impossible. After all, no matter where it is solemnized, the marriage service is a religious ceremony.

Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but if you are planning to have a small home wedding and would like to know how to decorate the home and know other details you will find Mrs. Post's leaflet E-8 helpful. When Mean Colds Stuff You Up

It's so easy to relieve coughs and stuffiness of colds in a hurry this home-proved way... with 2 spoonfuls of Vicks VapoRub in a vaporizer or in a bowl of boiling water as directed in package.

Just breathe in the steam! Every single breath carries VapoRub's soothing medications deep into throat and large bronchial tubes. It medicates irritated membranes, helps restore normal breathing. For coughs or upper bronchial congestion there's nothing like using Vicks VapoRub in steam.

For continued relief always rub it on throat, chest and back.

Ministers Traveled Far
Circuit riding was introduced into the United States about 1771. Early ministers of this type sometimes covered 5,000 miles a year and often preached two sermons on weekdays and sometimes more on Sunday. Before 1800, they furnished their own horse and received about $65 a year.

Mother says that just for the fun of it father posted a letter addressed to the "Silliest Man in the U. S." and it came right back to him.

Husband—What a horrible noise comes from that radio set!
Wife—Well, I guess you would make just as bad a noise if you were coming out of either.

The lack of common sense is at the root of all blunders.

College Board Exams

College Board Exams were given Jan. 12.

Altogether 55 took the exam, 45 of whom were KHS students. The remaining 10 came from Saugerties, Ellenville, Kerhonkson and Tannersville.

The majority of students took the scholastic aptitude test in the morning and some took the achievement test in the afternoon.

These exams have been divided over a period of time to help the student instead of staying a full day and doing exams. The other exams will be held in March. However, if a student wishes he may take the whole exam at once.

Exams of this type are held to determine if a student is capable of doing college work. They are used more today because of the high school curriculum changes.

A student passing these tests is eligible for admission to any college in the U. S. providing he has the subjects required by that college for admission.

AA Banquet Dates

The annual Athletic Association banquet will be held either Feb. 9 or 16 in the KHS gym. All students, both boys and girls who have competed in high school sports, will be eligible to attend.

Students Graduate

When classes meet again following the mid-term examination period, seven seniors will have graduated with diplomas. The graduates include Mary Jane Keller, Edna Fisk, Barbara Bundy, Valerie Swanson, Charles Pavlidis, Eugene McSpirt, and Albert Kierstead. Several plan to begin work at the IBM plant in Poughkeepsie while others will enter service.

Movie Receipts

Proceeds from this year's junior movie, Margie amounted to more than $150.

Plan Sports Trip

On Jan. 23 a group of sophomores with chaperones will leave by bus for Bear Mountain for a day of skiing, skating and tobogganing.

To make things easier, the students will not only rent skates, skis and toboggans but will also buy lunches. Advisers for the trip are Miss Donovan and Mr. Fister, who will share chaperone duties with Miss Leach and Miss Nafion. Barbara Warnecke, Joan E. Kias and Karl Meyers are the committees in charge of the trip.

Karl Meyers, president of the sophomore class, said the "purpose of the trip is primarily to get the entire sophomore class better acquainted and we hope the whole class will show as much interest in the trip as we have by signing up right away."

Ski Club Lessons

Although the current outlook for skiers has been dampened somewhat in the area, the KHS Ski Club is continuing its series of six lessons. The first session was held Friday with more than 35 ski aspirants on hand. Members are divided into four groups for the instructions.

Poster Contest

The Art Club of the high school is sponsoring a poster contest which will be open to any students in the city. This year the subject will be Safety. The posters should be entered on colored paper or poster-board, 16 by 20 inches. The contest will close Feb. 14.

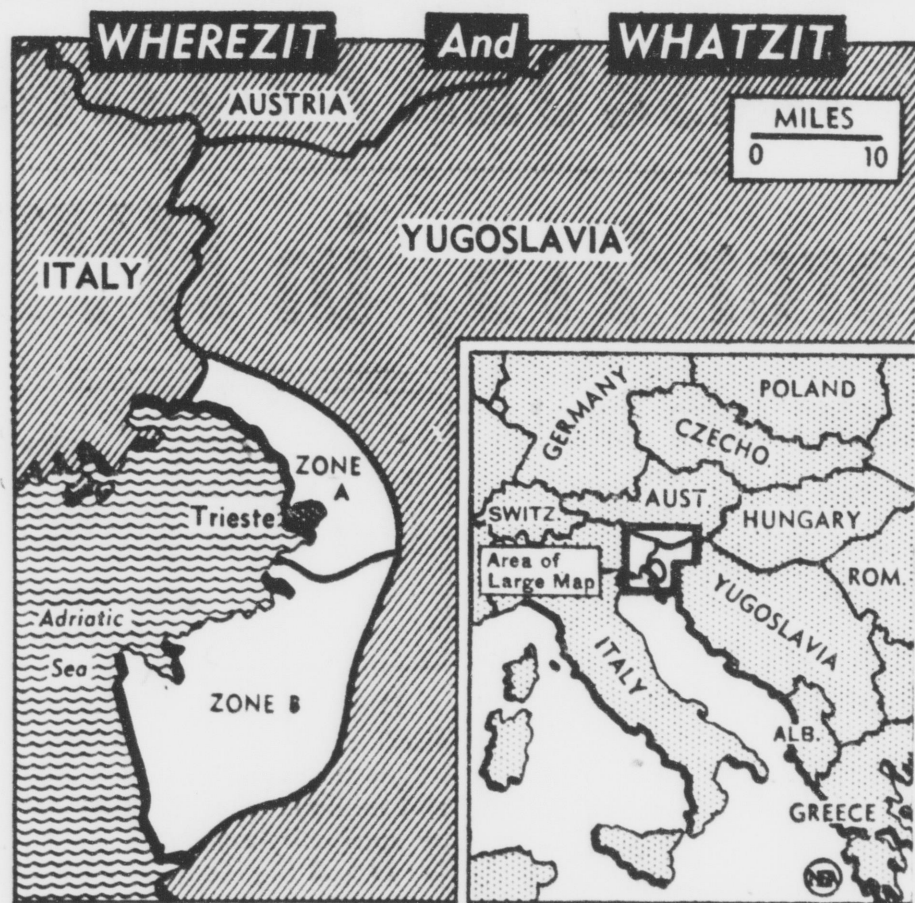

The winning poster will be reproduced and placed in front of the school and in other parts of the city.

Oriental Display

An oriental display of Chinese literature and ways of living are now on display in the vocational building.

Mrs. Bella Crook states "credit should go to my fourth period class consisting of Mary Murphy, chairman; Karen Van Kleeck,

TRIESTE, because of its strategic location, has been fought over for centuries. Its fine harbor, protected by mountains that dominate the upper Adriatic Sea, has been the gateway for trade with the Danube basin and Eastern Europe. Austria claimed the port city for 500 years, but lost it to Italy in World War I, after 600,000 Italians died fighting in the snow-covered Julian Alps. In World War II, Hitler grabbed Trieste only to lose it to Tito, who tried for a time to bring the city into the then-expanding Soviet Slav empire. After the war, the Western Allies wanted to return it to Italy, but at Paris in 1946 they compromised on a "Free Territory of Trieste," under United Nations supervision and occupied jointly by East and West. Zone A has been occupied by Britain and America, and has enjoyed five times more American Marshall Plan aid per capita than Italy. Zone B has been under Yugoslav occupation. Recent reports from Belgrade say Trieste may soon be divided, despite Russian objections, between Italy and Yugoslavia along the border of the two occupation zones. The port of Trieste would become Italian, but would be open also to Yugoslavia and Austria. With Western Europe rearming, Trieste has enjoyed prosperity in its booming shipyards, oil refineries and with the income brought by 10,000 British and U. S. troops stationed in the northern zone. Trieste's largely Italian population, while working for reunion with Italy, would view with mixed emotions the end of their privileged status as a "free territory" subsidized by Allied funds.

Alice Avery, Carolyn Bell, Barbara Rathgeber, Kathleen Hung, and Betty Hoffman. These girls did all the work and brought in their own merchandise.

Tryouts Completed

Tryouts for Juniors Leaders Club were held Jan. 9 through Jan. 15 for girls who have come from the M.J.M. and other schools. The only girls accepted for the tryouts this year were the girls who were leaders in M.J.M. The rest of the girls have to wait until their sophomore year before trying out.

Included was a written test Wednesday and a practical test Tuesday and Thursday for Adeline Cates, Janet Collins, Beverly Davenport, Jackie Haulenbeck, Phyllis Hutton, Barbara Miller, A. Schwalbach, Edith Werner, Carolyn Valentine and Hetty Voss.

Construction Progresses

The steady groan of a steam shovel, the rattle of a drill and the intermittent roar of a blast has started the new year off with a bang and added a new diversion for students of KHS who have classes in the eastern end of the building.

Construction has started to roll on the new gymnasium which is a much needed addition to KHS.

In this gym, there will be a main basketball court 84x50 and folding bleachers 10 rows high which will seat 2,000 students. The main floor space will be divided by electrically operated, sound-proof doors into two good-sized gyms. All this is on the first floor.

The basement will have over 1,000 gym lockers for both boys and girls, showers and team rooms, plus a special gym room, storage rooms, physical education director's office, and many other needed divisions.

The second floor will include medical office, a waiting room and rest rooms.

Jacy on Canasta

Use Deception in Your Game

BY OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service
"We had quite a few arguments recently about Canasta," reports a Chicago correspondent, "but they were all fairly mild compared to the one we just had about a play I made. This last one was really a flu."

"I was dealt five jacks. My partner made the first meld for our side after a couple of plays, so at my turn I put down three of the five jacks and kept the other two jacks in my hand innocent-like."

"Sure enough, the player at my left froze the discard pile. After a few more plays, the player at my right discarded a jack. This was just what I had been waiting for, so I picked up the discard pile with the two jacks (which were still in my hand, of course)."

"The opponents said that my stratagem was simply cheating, and that they wouldn't play with me any more if I went on like that. I argued about it until we were all blue in the face, but it didn't do any good."

"I am fond of my friends, so I let them have their way. Nevertheless I feel sure that my play was perfectly fair and proper. I'll abide by your decision if you say

I was wrong. What is your verdict?"

This sort of thing happens surprisingly often. My correspondent was of course absolutely fair in playing the way he did. His opponents had no right to say that his tricky play was cheating.

This, of course, is known to every good player of almost any card game. It is quite proper and ethical to make a deceptive play, provided that you rely only on the play itself and that you don't help matters along with a false comment.

For example, you can meld three jacks and keep two in your hand; but you should not say "I wish I had more of these" or anything else that would give the false impression that you had melded all of your jacks.

Nevertheless, Canasta is just a game, and friends are more important than games. If your friends are foolish enough to prefer a sissy way of playing Canasta, you may have to let them have their way.

Keep ahead of the Canasta crowd with Jacoby's complete CANASTA RULES booklet! Send 15 cents with your name and address to Oswald Jacoby, Box 458, Times Square Sta., New York 18, N. Y.

Golfers Fined

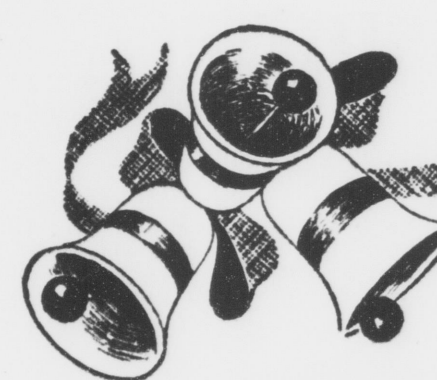

The Scottish Parliament, in 1457, passed a law prohibiting the sport of golf because it was keeping men from practicing their required archery. Scottish players gave it up for a time and then returned to the game, with the result that a severer law was passed in 1491. The new law subjected not only the player to fine and imprisonment, but also the owner of the land on which the game was played.

True firs grow their cones upward.

Slow Progress

Almost 200 years were required for the American colonists to advance their settlements from the coast as far as the crest of the Appalachians, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Retailing Exhibits

The cooperative retailing class of Periods 1 and 2 completed two windows last week. The first group had a display of sporting equipment consisting of skates, hockey sticks, gloves and others. Peter Camp, Chris Rienzo and Charles Sangaline were in charge. The merchandise was loaned through the courtesy of Montgomery Ward.

The second display was in charge of Theresa Clausi, Jackie Bilyou, Marie Autorino and Mary Jean Keller. Their window consisted of typewriters, catalogues, files and other office equipment. Merchandise was given through the courtesy of O'Reilly's.

The Period 3 and 4 classes also completed two window displays last week. The first was a display of shoes and socks arranged on a natural wood background including loafers, saddle and dress style shoes and bobby socks. Those in charge were Betty Jean Faurer, Joan Green and George Dickson. The merchandise was loaned through the courtesy of Kinney's Shoes.

The second display consisted of canned goods from the Great Bull Market. Ronald Bruck, Paul Brown and William O'Reilly were in charge.

College Board Exams

College Board Exams were given Jan. 12.

Altogether 55 took the exam, 45 of whom were KHS students. The remaining 10 came from Saugerties, Ellenville, Kerhonkson and Tannersville.

The majority of students took the scholastic aptitude test in the morning and some took the achievement test in the afternoon.

These exams have been divided over a period of time to help the student instead of staying a full day and doing exams. The other exams will be held in March. However, if a student wishes he may take the whole exam at once.

Exams of this type are held to determine if a student is capable of doing college work. They are used more today because of the high school curriculum changes.

A student passing these tests is eligible for admission to any college in the U. S. providing he has the subjects required by that college for admission.

AA Banquet Dates

The annual Athletic Association banquet will be held either Feb. 9 or 16 in the KHS gym. All students, both boys and girls who have competed in high school sports, will be eligible to attend.

Prisma Dance

Tickets for the Prisma annual dance, the Sweetheart Swirl, are now available in the school front corridor. Tickets also may be obtained in Room 110 from Joan Timpon, Arlene Semilof and Dot Tarr. The dance will be held Feb. 2 in the MJM gym with music being furnished by Arthur Lamoreaux's orchestra. A theme of Valentine's Day has been chosen.

Students Graduate

When classes meet again following the mid-term examination period, seven seniors will have graduated with diplomas. The graduates include Mary Jane Keller, Edna Fisk, Barbara Bundy, Valerie Swanson, Charles Pavlidas, Eugene McSpirt, and Albert Kleister. Several plan to begin work at the IBM plant in Poughkeepsie while others will enter service.

Movie Receipts

Proceeds from this year's junior movie, Margie, amounted to more than $150.

Plan Sports Trip

On Jan. 23 a group of sophomores with chaperones will leave by bus for Bear Mountain for a day of skiing, skating and tobogganing.

To make things easier, the students will not only rent skates, skis and toboggans but will also buy lunches.

Advisors for the trip are Miss Donovan and Mr. Flister, who will share chaperone duties with Miss Leach and Miss Naiton. Barbara Wernicke, Joan Erena, Gail Kias and Karl Meyers are the committees in charge of the trip.

Karl Meyers, president of the sophomore class, said the "purpose of the trip is primarily to get the entire sophomore class better acquainted and we hope the whole class will show as much interest in the trip as we have by signing up right away."

Ski Club Lessons

Although the current outlook for skiers has been dampened somewhat in the area, the KHS Ski Club is continuing its series of six lessons. The first session was held Friday with more than 35 ski aspirants on hand. Members are divided into four groups for the instructions.

Poster Contest

The Art Club of the high school is sponsoring a poster contest which will be open to any students in the city. This year the subject will be Safety.

The posters should be entered on colored paper or poster-board, 16 by 20 inches. The contest will close Feb. 14.

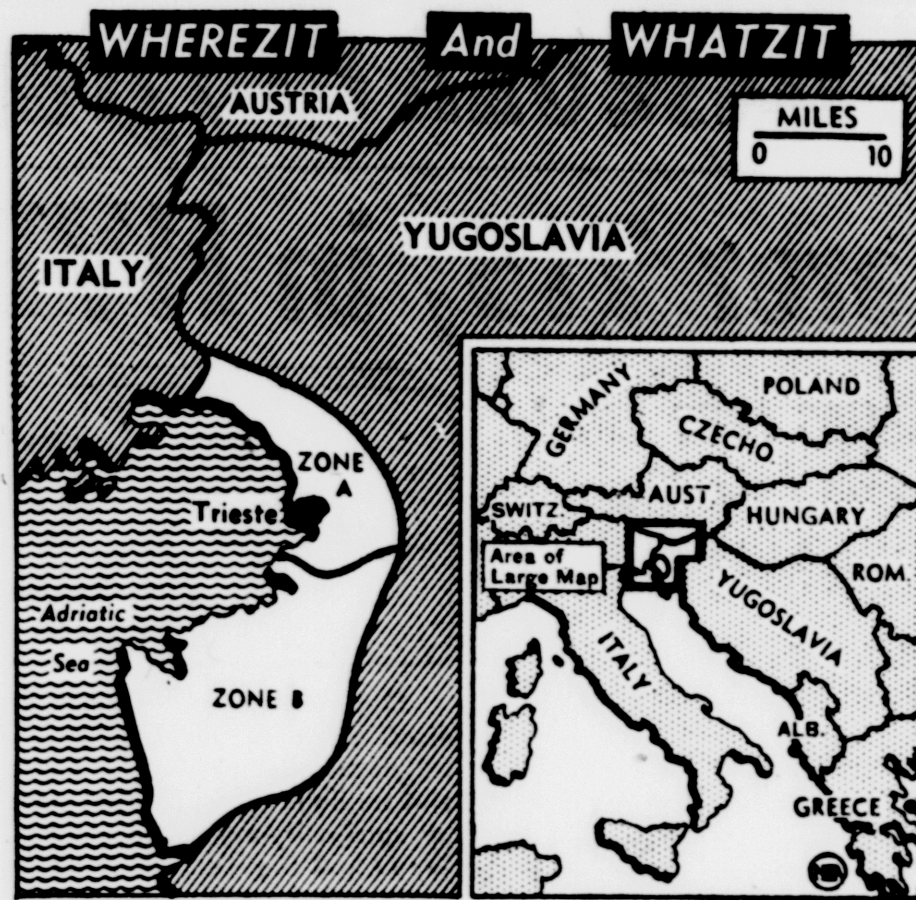

The winning poster will be reproduced and placed in front of the school and in other parts of the city.

Oriental Display

An oriental display of Chinese literature and ways of living are now on display in the vocational building.

Included in this display are books of Chinese literature, chop sticks, rugs, fans, bracelets, trinkets, Chinese clothing, shoes, and photographs of famous Chinese cities and houses.

TRIESTE, because of its strategic location, has been fought over for centuries. Its fine harbor, protected by mountains that dominate the upper Adriatic Sea, has been the gateway for trade with the Danube basin and Eastern Europe. Austria claimed the port city for 500 years, but lost it to Italy in World War I, after 600,000 Italians died fighting in the snow-covered Julian Alps. In World War II, Hitler grabbed Trieste only to lose it to Tito, who tried for a time to bring the city into the then-expanding Soviet Slav empire. After the war, the Western Allies wanted to return it to Italy, but at Paris in 1946 they compromised on a "Free Territory of Trieste," under United Nations supervision and occupied jointly by East and West. Zone A has been occupied by Britain and America, and has enjoyed five times more American Marshall Plan aid per capita than Italy. Zone B has been under Yugoslav occupation. Recent reports from Belgrade say Trieste may soon be divided, despite Russian objections, between Italy and Yugoslavia along the border of the two occupation zones. The port of Trieste would become the only port open to Yugoslavia and Austria. With Western Europe rearming, Trieste has enjoyed prosperity in its booming shipyards, oil refineries and with the income brought by 10,000 British and U. S. troops stationed in the northern zone. Trieste's largely Italian population, while working for reunion with Italy, would view with mixed emotions the end of their privileged status as a "free territory" subsidized by Allied funds.

Alice Avery, Carolyn Bell, Barbara Rathgeber, Kathleen Hung, and Betty Hoffman. These girls did all the work and brought in their own merchandise.

Tryouts Completed

Tryouts for Juniors Leaders' Club were held Jan. 9 through Jan. 15 for girls who have come from the MJM and other schools. The girls accepted for the tryouts this year were the girls who were leaders in MJM. The rest of the girls have to wait until their sophomore year before trying out.

Included was a written test Wednesday and a practical test Tuesday and Thursday for Adeline Carter, Janet Collins, Beverly Davison, Jackie Haulenbeck, Phyllis Hutton, Barbara Miller, A. Schwaibach, Edith Werner, Carolyn Valentine and Betty Voss.

Construction Progresses

The steady groan of a steam shovel, the rattle of a drill and the intermittent roar of a blast has started the new year off with a bang and added a diversion for the students of KHS who have classes in the eastern end of the building.

Construction has started to roll on the new gymnasium which is a much needed addition to KHS. In this gym, there will be a main basketball court 84x50 and folding bleachers 14 rows high which will seat 2,000 students. The main floor space will be divided by electrically operated, sound-proof doors into two good-sized gyms. All this is on the first floor.

The basement will have over 1,000 gym lockers for both boys and girls, showers and team rooms, plus a special gym room, storage rooms, physical education director's office, and many other needed divisions.

The second floor will include medical office, a waiting room and rest rooms.

Jacoby on Canasta

Use Deception in Your Game

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service
"We had quite a few arguments recently about Canasta," reports a Chicago correspondent, "but they were all fairly mild compared to the one we just had about a play I made. This last one was really a lulu."

"I was dealt five jacks. My partner made the first meld for our side after a couple of plays, so at my turn I put down three of the five jacks and kept the other two jacks in my hand innocent-like."

"Sure enough, the player at my left froze the discard pile. After a few more plays, the player at my right discarded a jack. This was just what I had been waiting for, so I picked up the discard pile with the two jacks (which were still in my hand, of course)."

"The opponents said that my stratagem was simply cheating, and that they wouldn't play with me any more if I went on like that. I argued about it until we were all blue in the face, but it didn't do any good."

"I am fond of my friends, so I let them have their way. Nevertheless I feel sure that my play was perfectly fair and proper. I'll abide by your decision if you say I was wrong. What is your verdict?"

"This sort of thing happens surprisingly often. My correspondent was of course absolutely fair in playing the way he did. His opponents had no right to say that his tricky play was cheating."

"This, of course, is known to every good player of almost any card game. It is quite proper and ethical to make a deceptive play, provided that you rely only on the play itself and that you don't help matters along with a false comment."

"For example, you can meld three jacks and keep two in your hand; but you should not say 'I wish I had more of these' or anything else that would give the false impression that you had melded all of your jacks."

"Nevertheless, Canasta is just a game, and friends are more important than games. If your friends are foolish enough to prefer a sissy's way of playing Canasta, you may have to let them have their way."

Golfers Fined

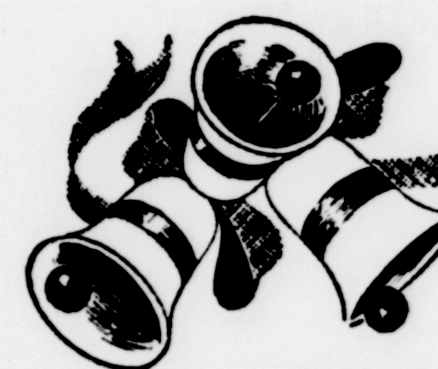

The Scottish Parliament, in 1457, passed a law prohibiting the sport of golf because it was keeping men from practicing their required archery. Scottish players gave it up for a time and then returned to the game, with the result that a severe law was passed in 1491. The new law subjected not only the player to fine and imprisonment, but also the owner of the land on which the game was played.

True firs grow their cones upward.

Slow Progress

Almost 200 years were required for the American colonists to advance their settlements from the coast as far as the crest of the Appalachians, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

KAA Plans Another Four-Team Little League Baseball Program for '52

Umpleby Emphasizes Need for Expansion

The Kingston Athletic Association will sponsor a four-team Little League baseball setup for the second straight year, Bob Umpleby, KAA president, made known today.

At the same time, the hard working Little League director who promoted the 1951 circuit to great success urged that Little League baseball be expanded in the city.

"There is a definite need for more Little Leagues in Kingston," he said, "and the KAA feels that other organizations should come forward as sponsors of new leagues."

Schatzel Cracks IBM Solo Record

Rallying from one of the poorest games in her recent career—a rousing 105—Rose Schatzel went on to set a new all-time high of 254 for the women's division of the IBM Polo Sweepstakes Sunday at the IBM lanes in Poughkeepsie.

The Queen opened with 105, then shot 186, before she launched the strike spree that netted her a new record of 254. She rolled 543 for the set. Her team, the Century Cleaners, finished out of the money with 2375.

The New Fountain Tavern five of Poughkeepsie won the women's division with 2672. Hercules of Kingston finished third in the prize list with 2634.

Week-End Sports

By the Associated Press

New York—National Football League purchased New York Yankees from Ted Collins for $100,000 and then transferred club to Dallas with Gules Miller, textile manufacturer, paying $300,000 for the franchise. The purchase price included $200,000 owed the New York baseball Yankees for rental of the stadium.

San Diego, Calif.—Ted Kroll, New Hartford, N. Y., won $10,000 San Diego open with 12-under par 276 for 72 holes.

Tampa, Fla.—Louise Sugars, Carrollton, Ga., won the Tampa Women's Open with 72-hole score of 293 after finishing second five times.

San Diego—The PGA tournament committee voted to permit Negroes to play in tournaments co-sponsored by the PGA, provided the local sponsor and the local host club approve.

Dunedin, Fla.—Al Watrous, Birmingham, Mich., won the first PGA National Senior Open tournament with an eight-under-par 208.

New York—The United States Lawn Tennis Association voted to change its committee's 1951 rankings, moving Vic Seixas from second to first; Dick Savitt from third to second, and dropping Tony Trabert from first to third.

Zurich, Switzerland—Russia's application to participate in the Olympic ice hockey tournament was turned down by International Ice Hockey Federation.

Bad Gastein, Austria—Mrs. Andree Mead Lawrence, Rutland, Vt., won the women's slalom race at the International Ski Festival.

YMCA Volleyballers Win Over Newburgh

The local YMCA volleyball squad defeated Newburgh Y, four games out of six, in an inter-city duel here last week.

The scores were: 13-15, 15-5, 15-10, 9-15 and 15-8.

Capt. Chet Dolson's aggregation included Lou Schafer, James "Babe" Volker, Tony Castiglione, Alvin Most, Warren Smith, Charlie Higgins and Arthur Moak. Four other members were absent because of illness and business reasons.

The KAA operated its 1951 league—first of its kind ever staged in Kingston—at St. Mary's Field at the corner of Foxhall and Flatbush avenues last summer.

Umpleby said the question of Little League expansion created a lively discussion at the last KAA meeting. Although a final decision on the matter was tabled until the February meeting, the consensus of KAA opinion was that the organization should proceed with just one league for at least another season.

900 Boys Tried Out
Umpleby supported his suggestion for new leagues and Little League expansion with statistics. "More than 900 boys between the ages of 8 and 12 tried out for Little League last year," he pointed out, "and of this large number, only 72 eventually found their way into the Little League setup. Obviously there is need for expansion both from a numerical and geographical standpoint."

The KAA will pledge its assistance and cooperation to any organization interested in Little League baseball, Umpleby continued.

"We will do everything we can to help any organization that would like to sponsor Little League baseball," he went on. "If there is sufficient interest throughout the city, our area will be divided into zones."

Predicts Several Leagues

Umpleby said he foresaw the day when several leagues were operating simultaneously in the city.

"The Little League headquarters estimates that any community of 4,000 pop. should be able to support a four-team league. According to that theory, Kingston could handle seven leagues."

The KAA president also noted that in nearby cities like Newburgh and Poughkeepsie Little League baseball mushroomed to several leagues after the first year.

The KAA will announce plans for the 1952 league in the near future. Tentative plans call for an earlier start than last season.

Umpleby said he believed the tremendous interest in last year's setup would result in a larger turnout of candidates for this year's team.

"This will complicate our setup," he continued, "but in view of the financial commitments involved, the KAA is not in a position to expand its program at the present time."

A long range plan involving the KAA's Little League is in the making, Umpleby added, but said details were incomplete at the present time.

Rapps Take Two From Cy's Diner With 3190 Blast

Nick Hits 204-266-258; Hank Has 254-196-265

Despite a brilliant 728 series by Nifty Nick Leece, the Hudson Valley League high average kegler, Rapp's Express squad of Kingston maintained its traditional superiority over Newburgh's Cy's Diner in a tremendous match, Sunday before an SRO crowd at the Bowldrome.

Rapp's answer to Leece was Hammerin' Hank Kemmerer who pounded 728 for his second "700" of the campaign.

The Expressmen narrowly missed a 3200 set, rolling games of 1131, 933 and 1126 for 3190. None of the marks challenged the existing records held by the locals.

Cy's scored one of their rare wins in Kingston with a 1055 middle blast, while Rapp's were slumping to 933.

On Strike Spree
Leece treated the huge crowd to a superb exhibition of pocket blasting after getting off to a slow start. He opened with 204 and followed with 266 after an opening "8-10" pocket split. He closed with 258.

Kemmerer also pulverized the 1-3 pocket in rolling off games of 196 and 265, despite a series of 10-pin taps.

Rapp's picked up only one game on the pace setting Diners and still trail the Newburgh pounders by an 11 game margin in the last column of the league standings.

Three other members of the Rapp's squad went over the "600" mark. George Flemings, the curly-headed leadoff, enjoyed his best day of the season with 235-255-633. Joe Schrowang posted 226-204-618 and Johnny Ferraro hit for the hat trick on 246-206-201-653.

Al Crisel shot 206-234-596 for the losers.

Elstons Lose Two
Elston Sport Shop dropped a pair to the Kerhonkson VFW at the Central Recs. Smith rolled 208-236-616 and Sam Fisher had 222-200-615 for the visitors.

Tommy Amato led Elstons with 226-212-632, while Larry Weisaupt knocked off 228-610.

Wilson Scores 27 Against Accord

The 50 Club was just too much for Wilson for the Accord Cheviets in the Saturday Y League "B" feature, the flashy 50 Club forward hitting for 27 points in a 69-50 rout of the Accord team.

The victory enabled 50 Club to tie the Esopus Firemen for the "B" League lead and the first half playoff is scheduled next Saturday night.

With Wilson hitting a dozen baskets and John Burris giving good support, the locals moved in from quickly, 13-9, and led 31-20 at halftime.

Nick Nickalonis and Byron Lawrence shared 23 points for the Cheviets.

* Did you ever stop to consider the tavern slump that will be the direct result of Joe DiMaggio and Ted Williams leaving the big league picture? Have you any conception of the thousands of hours and millions of drinks that have been consumed in the past decade by spiritually-motivated statisticians arguing the relative merits of Joe D and Big Ted. It must have been tremendous.

Flotsam and Jetsam:

Kingston High's hopes of a Poughkeepsie victory over Newburgh Academy in the Bridge City handbox faded with the suspension of Leroy "Eggie" Johnson, the Blues' ace scorer. Coach Sam Kallouch gave the football-basketball star the heave-ho last week but declined to give the reason. Pvt. Morton Gazlay post-cards from Oceanside, Calif., that Kevin "Chuck" Connors, Los Angeles first sacker who has been wowing 'em on the knife and fork circuit with his recitation of "Casey at the Bat" made his debut before the Hollywood cameras in that and Mike, starring Spencer Tracy and Katherine Hepburn. Old Chuck, the wartime cutup of the Kingston Recreations, will play the part of a police captain. Jim Mellin of Woodstock is battling for the 167-pound berth on Blair Academy wrestling squad at Blairstown, N. J. Ed Stanky's move in shifting Red Schoendienst to the outfield caused a few eyebrows to lift, but from here it seems that the smartest move The Brat could make would be to make sure he's on second base everytime Stan Musial comes to bat.

More on the Laskowitz Case:
Bob Podhurst has replaced Fallsburg's Bob Laskowitz as the Comets' glamor boy but here's a few extra angles on the strange case of the Fallsburg adoption of the former Middletown student, by Eddie Curran, the Times Herald.

It's a pride when Bob (Laskowitz), who was a student at Middletown High School as a freshman, did his quick about face about returning.

"The Laskowitz about face still puzzles DUSO circles. The boy was a student at Fallsburg Central and his parents Fallsburg residents during his sophomore and junior years. Last summer his parents moved to Florida, N. Y., and Bob moved with them. Then, when school opened in September, Bob returned to Fallsburg for school, while his parents continued to reside in Florida.

Shortly after Thanksgiving, Middletown began to hear rumors that Laskowitz was going to return here for school. Official word was received here that he was to register at Middletown High School. But, he never did. And that was that. But, the Middies were hurt about it all. Now they're mad."

(P.S.—They proved it by knocking off the Comets Friday night and just about ruining their pennant chances.)

Maybe you don't recall it but on Sept. 7, 1915, the All Kingston defeated Lake Mohawk in baseball. Bob Bennett was the winning pitcher and Brophy hit a homer. If you're an old timer, can you identify the names in the Kingston lineup that day: Zelic, 2b; Brophy, 1b; Smedes, c; Ortez, 3b; H. DuBois, cf; Silverman, ss; Hafer, rf; W. DuBois, lb; and Bennett, p.

Bob Finch, public relations director for the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues (the minors) recently turned a broadside at the major league broadcasts into minor league territory. He said that the minors may be suffering now, but it will be the major leagues who will injure themselves in the long run. He also brought out a very pertinent point in connection with baseball broadcasts.

Broadcasts of major league games "overcolor" the actual happenings on the field, he declared. This tendency to create a magnified version of the action is in addition to the sobs and alibis with which listeners to certain games are familiar.

When you approach these broadcasts from a cold, analytical standpoint, you sometimes get a terrible shock in the realization that, after all, these guys are playing just another ball game. It's not quite the hysterical, life and death proposition the radio's droolators would have you believe.

The department extends heartfelt condolence to Joe Hoffman and Mrs. Jerry Bush on the death of their beloved mother. For many years, Mrs. Hoffman was a familiar figure and avid rooter at the baseball games in which her distinguished catcher-son participated.

KAA Plans Another Four-Team Little League Baseball Program for '52

Umpleby Emphasizes Need for Expansion

The Kingston Athletic Association will sponsor a four-team Little League baseball setup for the second straight year. Bob Umpleby, KAA president, made known today.

At the same time, the hard working Little League director who promoted the 1951 circuit to great success urged that Little League baseball be expanded in the city.

"There is a definite need for more Little Leagues in Kingston," he said, "and the KAA feels that other organizations should come forward as sponsors of new leagues."

Schatzel Cracks IBM Solo Record

Rallying from one of the poorest games in her recent career—a rousing 105-Rose Schatzel went on to set a new all-time high of 254 for the women's division of the IBM Polo Sweepstakes Sunday at the IBM lanes in Poughkeepsie.

The Queen opened with 105, then shot 186, before she launched the strike spree that netted her a new record of 254. She rolled 543 for the set. Her team, the Century Cleaners, finished out of the money with 2375.

The New Fountain Tavern five of Poughkeepsie won the women's division with 2672.

Hercules of Kingston finished third in the prize list with 2654.

The scores were: 13-15, 15-15, 15-10, 9-15 and 15-8.

Capt. Chet Dolson's aggregation included Lou Schafer, James "Babe" Volker, Tony Castiglione, Alvin Most, Warren Smith, Charlie Higgins and Arthur Moak. Four other members were absent because of illness and business reasons.

The KAA operated its 1951 league—first of its kind ever staged in Kingston—at St. Mary's Field at the corner of Foxhall and Flatbush avenues last summer.

Umpleby said the question of Little League expansion created a lively discussion at the last KAA meeting. Although a final decision on the matter was tabled until the February meeting, the consensus of KAA opinion was that the organization should proceed with just one league for at least another season.

900 Boys Tried Out

Umpleby supported his suggestion for new leagues and Little League expansion with statistics. "More than 900 boys between the ages of 8 and 12 tried out for Little League last year," he pointed out, "and of this large number, only 72 eventually found their way into the Little League setup. Obviously there is need for expansion both from a numerical and geographical standpoint."

The KAA will pledge its assistance and cooperation to any organization interested in Little League baseball, Umpleby continued.

"We will do everything we can to help any organization that would like to sponsor Little League baseball," he went on. "If there is sufficient interest throughout the city, our area will be divided into zones."

Predicts Several Leagues

Umpleby said he foresaw the day when several leagues were operating simultaneously in the city.

"The Little League headquarters estimates that any community of 4,000 pop should be able to support a four-team league. According to that theory, Kingston could handle seven leagues."

The KAA president also noted that in nearby cities like Newburgh and Poughkeepsie Little League baseball mushroomed to several leagues after the first year.

The KAA will announce plans for the 1952 league in the near future. Tentative plans call for an earlier start than last season.

Umpleby said he believed the tremendous interest in last year's setup would result in a larger turnout of candidates for this year's team.

"This will complicate our set-up," he continued, "but in view of the financial commitments involved, the KAA is not in a position to expand its program at the present time."

A long range plan involving the KAA's Little League is in the making, Umpleby added, but said details were incomplete at the present time.

Rapps Take Two From Cy's Diner With 3190 Blast

Nick Hits 204-266-258; Hank Has 254-196-265

Despite a brilliant 728 series by Nifty Nick Leoce, the Hudson Valley League high average kegler, Rapp's Express squad of Kingston maintained its traditional superiority over Newburgh's Cy's Diner in a tremendous match, Sunday before an SRO crowd at the Bowldrome.

Rapp's answer to Leoce was Hammerin' Hank Kemmerer who pounded 728 for his second "700" of the campaign.

The Expressmen narrowly missed a 3200 set, rolling games of 1131, 933 and 1126 for 3190. None of the marks challenged the existing records held by the locals.

Cy's scored one of their rare wins in Kingston with a 1055 middle blast, while Rapp's were slumping to 933.

On Strike Spree

Leoce treated the huge crowd to a superb exhibition of pocket blasting after getting off to a slow start. He opened with 204 and followed with 266 after an opening "8-10" pocket split. He closed with 258.

Kemmerer also pulverized the 1-3 pocket in rolling off games of 254, 196 and 265, despite a series of 10-pin taps.

Rapp's picked up only one game on the pace setting Diners and still trail the Newburgh pounders by an 11-game margin in the lost column of the league standings.

Three other members of the Rapp's squad went over the "600" mark. George Flemings, the curly-headed leadoff, enjoyed his best day of the season with 235-255-633. Joe Schrowang posted 226-204-618 and Johnny Ferraro hit for the hot trick on 216-206-201-653.

Al Crisot shot 206-234-596 for the losers.

Elstons Lose Two

Elston Sport Shop dropped a pair to the Kerhonkson VFW at the Central Recs. Smith rolled 208-236-616 and Sam Fisher had 222-200-615 for the visitors.

Tommy Amato led Elstons with 226-212-632, while Larry Weiss-haupt knocked off 228-610.

The 50 Club was just too much for Bruce Wilson for the Accord Chevs in the Saturday Y League "B" feature, the flashy 50 Club forward hitting for 27 points in a 69-50 rout of the Accord team.

The victory enabled 50 Club to tie the Esopus Firemen for the "B" League lead and the first half playoff is scheduled next Saturday night.

With Wilson hitting a dozen baskets and John Burris giving good support, the locals moved in front quickly, 13-9, and led 31-20 at halftime.

Glover McMillan Top Can-Am Hitter

Schenectady, N. Y., Jan. 21 (AP)—Outfielder William McMillan, who hit .377 for Gloversville-Johnstown, won the 1951 batting crown in the Canadian-American Baseball League.

Official averages released today showed McMillan played in 96 games and pounded out 127 hits, including seven home runs, in 337 official trips to the plate. He also stole 42 bases to lead the Class C circuit in that department.

Actually, John Bella, Amsterdam outfielder, had a higher batting average—.382—but he played in only 58 games. He had 89 hits in 233 official appearances.

John Jones, Amsterdam first baseman, was the home run king with 18 circuit blows. Jones had 476 runs at bat, most in the league, and hit .307. He hit for the most total bases—233—and drove in the most runs, 127. Set the loop pace. He played in 120 games.

Another Amsterdam player, outfielder William Casanova, hit .354 in 115 games. He scored the most runs, 121, made the most hits, 153, and the most doubles, 32.

The Amsterdam Rugmakers, who finished third behind Oneonta and Pittsford, led in club batting with a mark of .279. The Rugmakers scored the most runs, 827; allowed the most opponents' runs, 778; had the most hits, 1159; hit for the most total bases, 1604; pounded out the most home-base hits, 179; received the most bases on balls, 755; and batted in the most runs, 709. They also went to bat the most times, 4151.

The dubious distinction of being "hit the most often by pitched balls," went to Arnold Spence of Oneonta. He was hit 13 times.

L. Coddington tossed 16 points for the losers.

Four of the New Paliz cagers hit in double figures, with Clearwater's 19 points setting the pace. Richardson had 16, J. Gray 13 and Power 10.

First Major Win For Ted Kroll

San Diego, Calif., Jan. 21 (AP)—The golfing band quit California this week.

For the winners of the state's three major tournaments on the 1952 PGA winter trail—Ted Kroll here, Jimmy Damaret at Bing Crosby's clambake at Pebble Beach, and Tommy Bolt in the Los Angeles Open—memories are doubtless pleasant.

The others can only hope for better luck in play, and no more rain.

The Los Angeles event had cold and some dew. Mr. Crosby's affair was a test of physical endurance and long underwear, and the San Diego Open was half and half—half dry, half a deluge.

Today a chosen few golfers head to neighboring Palm Springs for a two-day $5,000 amateur event at the exclusive Thunderbird Golf Club.

All will assemble in Arizona for the $10,000 Phoenix Open next weekend.

The newest celebrity in golf—and recipient of a belated invitation to the Thunderbird Club party—is Ted Kroll, a youngish looking man of 32, of Polish descent, from New Hartford, N. Y.

Kroll won the $10,000 San Diego Open yesterday. He led at the start, with a spectacular 65, and he led at the finish, with a stubborn, well-deserved 70, with rounds of 69 and 72 in between.

The result gave the ex-caddie a 12 under par 276, $2,000 in cash, and his first major triumph.

Oh, yes, the Toronto Maple Leafs defeated the Blackhaws 3-1 yesterday.

The New York Rangers tripped the league-leading Detroit Red Wings, 3-2, to remain one point ahead of the fifth-place Boston Bruins. Boston kept pace with New York by edging the Montreal Canadiens, 2-1.

Expanding Bikes Used

Saigon, Indo-China, Jan. 21 (AP)—Communist Indo-Chinese terrorists employed a new weapon today against the French and their Vietnamese allies—exploding bicycles which injured some 30 persons.

Police said agents of the anti-French Vietnamese led seven bicycles parked at various spots here, all "armed" with time bombs in plastic tubes.

Eisenhower's generals are not happy about this. After all, they are army men and this may mean that some of them will have to make a decision to retire and string along with him in the belief that as President he would be better able to carry out the military venture which is now only beginning to take shape here.

Glover McMillan Top Can-Am Hitter

Schenectady, N. Y., Jan. 21 (AP)—Outfielder William McMillan, who hit .377 for Gloversville, Johnston, won the 1951 batting crown in the Canadian-American Baseball League.

Official averages released today showed McMillan played in 96 games and pounded out 127 hits, including seven home runs, in 337 official trips to the plate. He also stole 42 bases to lead the Class C circuit in that department.

Actually, John Bella, Amsterdam outfielder, had a higher batting average, .382, but he played in only 58 games. He had 89 hits in 233 official appearances.

John Jones, Amsterdam first baseman, was the home run king with 18 circuit blows. Jones had 476 turns at bat, most in the league, and hit .307. He hit for the most total bases, 23, and drove in the most runs, 127, set the loop pace. He played in 120 games.

Another Amsterdam player, outfielder William Casanova, hit .354 in 115 games. He scored the most runs, 121; made the most hits, 155; and the most doubles, 32.

The Amsterdam Rugmakers, who finished third behind Gloversville and Pittsford, led in club batting with a mark of .279. The Rugmakers scored the most runs, 827; allowed the most opponents' runs, 778; had the most hits, 1159; hit for the most total bases, 1604; pounded out the most two-base hits, 179; received the most bases on balls, 735; and batted in the most runs, 709. They also went to bat the most times, 4151.

The dubious distinction of being "hit the most often by pitched balls," went to Arnold Spence of Oneonta. He was hit 13 times.

New Paltz High Trims Kerhonkson

New Paltz High rolled over Kerhonkson, 85-56, in a UCAU contest Friday on the Kerhonkson court as the home club still sought its first win of the season.

C. Markle, Kerhonkson's right forward, was the individual scoring leader. New Paltz exploded with a 39-point second half to turn the game into a rout.

L. Coddington tossed 16 points for the losers.

Four of the New Paltz eagles hit in double figures, with Clearwater's 19 points setting the pace. Richardson led 16, J. Gray 13 and Ford 10.

New Paltz also won the Jaycee contest, 52-25. Jansen led the winners with 17 points. Robert Edwards scored nine for Kerhonkson. The boxscore:

Mikan Scores 61 In NBA Contest

(By The Associated Press)

George Mikan, the No. 1 basketball player of the half century, had his greatest scoring performance in the National Basketball Association books today after tallying 61 points.

The giant Minneapolis center fell just two points short of the league record set by Joe Fulks of Philadelphia three years ago as he paced the Lakers to 91-81 double overtime victory over the Rochester Royals last night.

Mikan, named the player of the half century in the 1950 Associated Press poll, put together his total on 22 field goals and 17 free throws. His previous NBA high was 53 points against Baltimore in 1949.

The Lakers' victory left them eight percentage points behind the pace-setting Royals in the western division.

A season's team scoring mark was hung up by the Boston Celtics, who downed the Indianapolis Olympians, 117-98. It was the ninth time this season the Celtics had gone over the century mark.

Bob Cousy paced the winners with 30 points.

The Celtics, however, failed to gain on Syracuse in the Eastern Division as the Nationals themselves went on a scoring spree to defeat Baltimore's bullets, 99-80. It was the Nationals' seventh straight victory and kept them two games in front of Boston.

Fort Wayne's Pistons cashed in on 37 out of 39 free throw attempts for a 83-76 victory over the Milwaukee Hawks.

Brophy Returns to Duty

Detective Clarence Brophy, who on Jan. 13 suffered cuts of three fingers of the left hand while operating a power saw in his home, was back on duty today. One finger was badly cut across the top and the others were nipped by the saw blade in the mishap.

There is no set rule for determining the state of a dog's health by the temperature of his nose.

As Pegler Sees It

ignorant of Jackson's integrity, which instinctively prompted him to make a great financial sacrifice to redeem the debts of a foster son who was, in one important respect a model for Elliott Roosevelt. The bankruptcy of Truman's necktie store and the scandalous loan of an overboard of money out of the public school funds to his mother by the Pennsylvania board of county supervisors in Kansas City dispose of any attempt to compare him with Jackson in that phase. And his merciless persecution of Maurice Milligan, the U. S. attorney who sent Pendergast to prison, is the classical example of his unbecomingly badness. He was devoted to that horrible old rogue with the passion of a punk to a big-shot in the underworld of Al Capone and he took swagging pride in the public wrecking of a painful revenge on a loyal public servant.

Now Ike has a lot of other American generals serving under him here who have careers at stake and you must realize that always, or almost always, such a commander is a hero to his subordinates and requires and gets their personal loyalty. These generals, starting with Alfred M. Gruenther, with four stars up to man who obviously is being trained and pointed for Eisenhower's job, have only to think back to Roosevelt's rule of selection for promotion, command and honors to realize that they are serving Truman's enemy. They are subject to the same malicious character which dictated at least three vicious longhand letters that we know of to men who had offended him. They are on a bad spot.

It is useless to pretend that Truman was threatening to

Sunday Hockey Clicks in Chicago

The first of six Sunday matinee games yesterday by the Chicago Blackhawks drew 13,614 customers to Chicago Stadium. It was a record turnout for the season for the National Hockey League tailenders.

The previous high was 12,208 on a Nov. 25 game with Detroit. Bill Tobin, Hawks' president, presented his first Sunday matinee with a large of half price admission for fans of 16 and under, but the majority of yesterday's attendance was adult.

Next Sunday Detroit will be at the stadium for a matinee date. Tobin said four other afternoon games would be scheduled.

Oh, yes, the Toronto Maple Leafs defeated the Blackhawks 3-1 yesterday.

The New York Rangers tripped the league-leading Detroit Red Wings, 3-2, to remain one point ahead of the fifth-place Boston Bruins. Boston kept pace with New York by edging the Montreal Canadiens, 2-1.

give Eisenhower the works in this campaign. When Ike said it was all right with him if Ike wanted to have "all those rotten eggs and mud thrown at him" he meant that he, Truman, would throw rotten eggs and mud. He had no right to insinuate that Chief Justice Vinson or any other potential Democratic candidate intended to throw them.

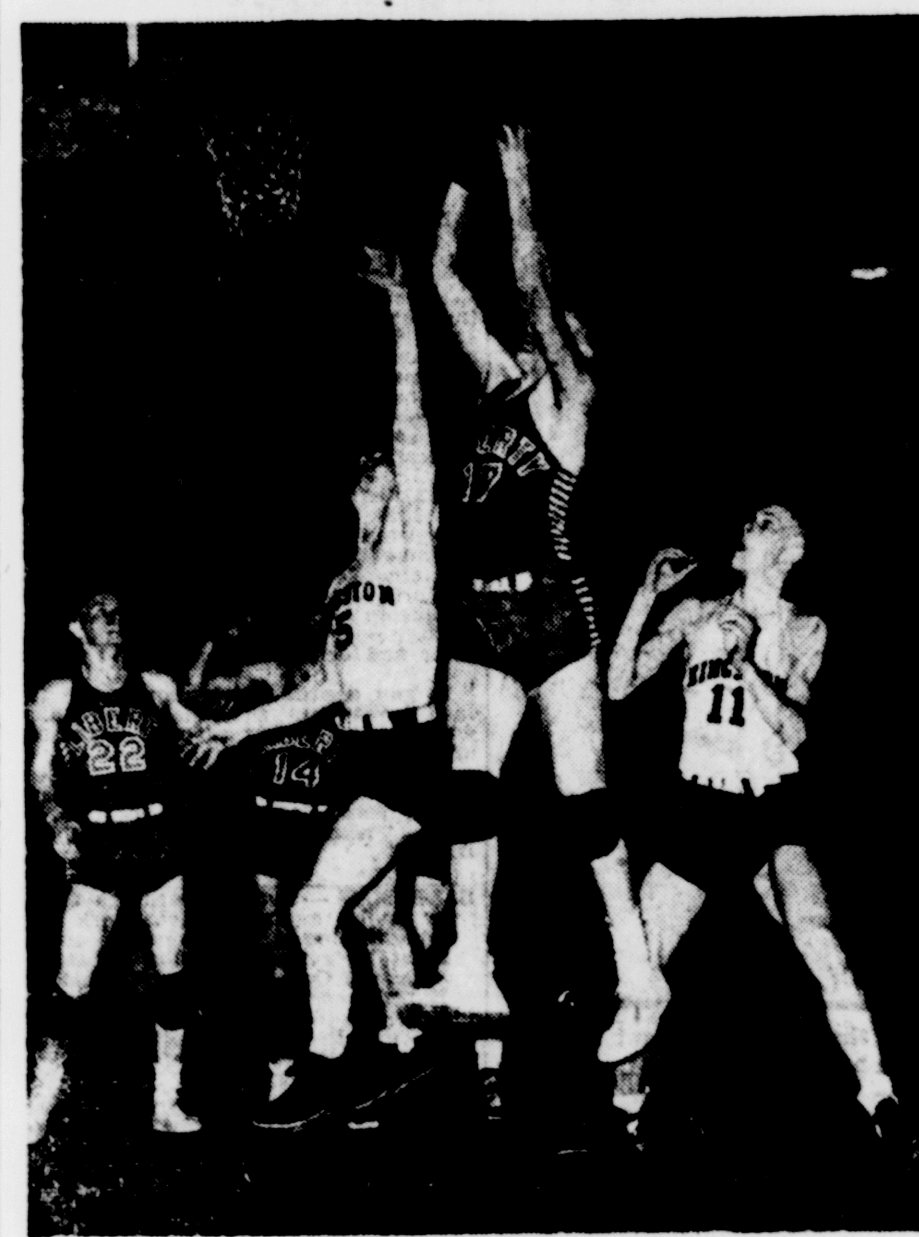

Eisenhower's generals are not happy about this. After all, they are army men and this may mean that some of them will have to make a decision to retire and string along with him in the belief that as President he would be better able to carry out the military venture which is now only beginning to take shape over here. Also, in this job, he necessarily has intimate entanglements with the State Department which is absolutely Truman's and he even has in his headquarters staff a nephew of General Douglas MacArthur, also named Douglas MacArthur, a State Department man whose wife is a daughter of Barkley's vice president, Alben Barkley. Tony Riddle, a brigadier on Ike's staff, is a State Department amateur with many honors on his jacket. A less controversial man would be hard to imagine than Tony Riddle nor a more loyal one. But he is a Democrat and here he finds himself serving under a Republican general who soon will be getting himself spattered with rotten eggs and mud thrown by the Democratic president.

All along, Ike's friends have been insisting that it comes to a fight, once he has blood on his gums, he will wipe off that ingratiating grin, get down off his toes and slug at the belly. But not all of them are confident that he can fight Truman's kind of fight. In dealing with a rotten egg-and-mud man, Ike will have to put his opponent in a predatory in every flurry and either stick to counter-punching or adopt an aloof and superior demeanor which didn't work when Tom Dewey tried it.

As a general, Eisenhower enjoys the dignity and prestige of a big office. He has never had to brawl with politicians, and fellow-soldiers can't imagine how he will adapt himself to a campaign in which Truman, with the uninhibited enthusiasm of a man whose only thought is to win, surely will introduce hateful racial issues and incite all well-known sensitivities against him. On one fighting issue we are certain to get a showdown this time. Eisenhower is just as firm as Taft against the predatory conduct of American unions. Whoever gets the Republican nomination, and it will be one or the other, that one will be fought to a showdown in November.

Bonnies to Risk Perfect Slate

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 21 (AP)—St. Bonaventure will risk its 10-game unbeaten basketball slate tomorrow night against another team with the winning habit—the Sampson Air Force Base.

The Sabres from the Sampson Air Force Base near Geneva have a tidy 13-game winning streak of their own, and move into Olean with a record of 21 wins in their last 24 starts.

The Bonnies, the nation's sixth-ranked team in the Associated Press poll, had little trouble sweeping past Cincinnati Saturday night, 77-58. Sampson, meanwhile, blundered Hobart, 93-72.

The Bonnies have another home game next Saturday with Youngstown, a team that doesn't appear to have much to bother the veteran Indians.

Cornell moved into a challenging position in the Ivy League race by whipping Princeton, 67-51, at Ithaca. The Big Red, undefeated in three league games, displaced the Tigers in second place, and now trails only Penn, the league leader at 1-0.

Cornell's next league action is slated for Feb. 2, when Penn comes to Ithaca after the mid-year examination layoff.

Colgate 66, St. Lawrence 33, Rensselaer Polytechnic 53, U. S. Coast Guard Academy 47, Niagara 77, John Carroll 62, Buffalo Teachers 71, Ashland 57, Albany Teachers 78, Plattsburgh Teachers 61, and Middlebury 61; Hamilton 58.

Five Men Survive

may have hit some trees first—as the plane crashed.

Captain Hybid and Scargall were thrown out together as the plane made its wild plunge. Three men "rode the wreckage all the way down."

They were Sgt. Charles Hartke, radio operator from Chicago, the co-pilot, Capt. Kenneth Sontner of Tacoma and Sgt. Edgar Farmer, radar observer from Waynesboro, Ga.

Farmer, who was in the waist of the ship, said he was "bounced all over the place."

The plane caught fire after the wreckage came to a stop. But the men had time to roll out sleeping bags and emergency equipment.

In the morning they lit flares and smoke bombs to attract rescuers. They also traced out in the snow the word, "Land," followed by a large "P." Their meaning was "land a para-med team."

Three planes came over this morning, but only one of them circled and they knew they had been found. Then when that Coast Guard helicopter came over it was the most welcome sight I've ever had in my life."

The helicopter pilot, Lt. Cmdr. Gordon H. Mac Lane, made five trips through snow squalls to carry out survivors and carry in rescue crews.

The missing men are Capt. Stanley Lankiewicz, Jr., the navigator of Tacoma, T/Sgt. Alan S. Ball, the engineer of Tacoma, and Sgt. John A. De Rath, radio operator from Stavanger, Norway.

The B-17 was returning from the crash of a Korean airliner plane Saturday at Sandspit, B. C. Only seven of 43 aboard that plane were saved.

Two Win Honors
New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—Leroy R. Grumman, airplane maker, and Dr. John H. Parkin, Canadian air expert, were named yesterday as winners of the Institute of Aeronautical Science's two honorary fellowships for 1951. Grumman is chairman of the board of the Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corp., Bethpage, N. Y., which is producing the Panther, the first carrier-based jet fighter used in combat by the navy. Dr. Parkin, director of Canada's national aeronautical establishment, built his country's first wind tunnel in 1917.

Coast Guard insignia follow Navy custom with the addition of the Coast Guard shield on cap and sleeve insignia of officers.

One of the nearest safety plays I have seen in a long time was executed in a rubber bridge game the other day by Gen. Robert J. Gill, of Baltimore. Curiously enough, General Gill was tuning up his game for the Maryland State Tournament, which is scheduled for early February, but found himself making a play that he wouldn't dream of making in a tournament.

West opened the queen of clubs, and General Gill won the trick at once with dummy's king. A quick count showed that he needed four diamond tricks to assure the contract. How could he make sure of those four tricks?

After some thought, he entered his hand with the king of hearts to begin the diamonds by leading a low card from his own hand towards dummy. This play was sure to produce four diamond tricks even if one opponent held all the missing cards in the suit.

West played a low diamond, and dummy won with the queen. East's discard revealed the situation, so General Gill led a second diamond to his ace and then continued by leading a low diamond towards dummy. West could take his king, but he could not stop declarer from winning four tricks in the suit.

Gill, who was a bridge tournament star before he was a general, would have lost his contract if he had been playing the hand in a pair tournament. In such a game it is important to play for extra tricks, so he would have led the queen of diamonds from dummy at the second trick.

This attempted finesse would lose to West's king, of course. Unfortunately, West would still have a second winner in diamonds, and declarer would win only three tricks in that suit.

Truman's Budget

Deal" measures, including a fair employment practices commission—another to many southerners—expanded social security benefits and federal aid to schools.

He did not mention two controversial programs he plumped for futilely in his last budget—the Brannan plan of farm subsidies and national health insurance.

Overall, national security programs would take 76 cents out of every dollar, the President said—and non-defense spending would be slashed one billion dollars under the current year.

He called for $600 million in appropriations for civilian defense, including construction of bomb shelters, and said continued refusal by Congress to provide it "would be a fatal gap in our security structure."

Other Highlights

Other highlights were proposals to add 7,000 agents to the scandal-hit Bureau of Internal Revenue, extend GI benefits to Korean war veterans, increase funds for government-built defense housing more than ten times, boost postal rates by $500 million, and start the long-proposed St. Lawrence seaway as a "strategic necessity."

The President said without new taxes the national debt would increase to $274,922,000,000 by June, 1953, just under the present legal limit of 275 billion.

These huge red ink entries are a matter of "grave concern," he said, and Congress ought to realize the risks involved. He said he was forced to abandon his goal of "pay-as-you-go" for the defense program when Congress gave him only a little more than half of the 10 billion in tax increases he sought last year.

Next fiscal year's spending estimate of $85,444,000,000 compared with a revised estimate of $70,881,000,000 for this year, ending June 30, and $4,633,000,000 actually spent last year.

Third Biggest in History
Spending in the new fiscal year would be the third biggest in history, twice the size of the first postwar years, larger than the first full year of World War 2, topped only by the two peak years of that war when the federal flow of dollars passed the 95 billion mark.

It would amount to $550 for every man, woman and child in the nation. The projected national debt would be $1,768 per capita. Huge expected deficits would contrast with a $3,510,000,000 surplus last year.

Despite the increase in spending, Mr. Truman proposed only $81,260,000,000 in the appropriations from Congress for the next fiscal year, ten billion less than he asked for the current year.

It's the first time in years that new appropriation requests—the only figures that go to Congress for approval—have been less than spending.

This is possible, the President explained, because of a huge unspent backlog of past allocations. Over the past three years, appropriations have been actual spending by about 70 billion dollars.

For Future Years

Of the new appropriations, only $43,577,000,000 would be spent next fiscal year and the remaining $40,683,000,000 would be carried over to future years.

Unspent appropriations usually represent hard goods, tanks, airplanes, etc., which will not be delivered and paid for until several years after the money is allocated.

A reduction in new appropriations this year is a sign officials foresee a reduction in spending several years hence. Mr. Truman said he hoped spending could be cut in the last of 1954, "if new international tensions do not develop," but outlays will remain at a peak until then.

An outcry over the size of the budget is to be expected from Congress, more so than usual because it is an election year. The record shows, however, that spending actually exceeded Mr. Truman's original estimates in three out of the past five years.

'Enormously Expensive'

"The job of building the strength we need to safeguard the security of the nation is enormously expensive," Mr. Truman told Congress.

"Despite its size, this is not a budget for all-out mobilization. It is a budget carefully planned to carry us a long way forward on the road to security—at a pace which is not only within our present economic capacity, but which will enable us to grow stronger in the years to come."

"In terms of sacrifices which this involves, it is a heavy price, but when freedom is at stake, it is a price which all of us will gladly pay."

The President's military program raised the goal for armed manpower from 3,600,000 this June to 3,700,000 in June, 1953. The air force objective would be raised to 143 wings from the present 90.

Both the army and the marines would get a new division—giving the army 21 and the marines three. The navy would be expanded from its present 380 combat vessels and 14 large carrier groups to 408 combat ships and 16 carrier groups.

The Old Plum Tree

By FRANK TRIPP

Did you ever get a good old-fashioned stomach ache from eating green plums? No self-inflicted spasm of childhood can approach what a green plum can do to a kid's tummy. Mr. Odell had a plum tree that hung over his fence. The boys of our neighborhood ran true to form and raided it. The years have proved that others than kids raid plum trees.

The politicians for instance. No sooner does a plum pass out of the blossom stage, and begin to show its round green body at the end of a stem, than the yard is all tramped down by hopefuls hanging around to catch it when it falls.

But for the age-old humbug that party members have something to say about who will get the ripened fruit, the whole tribe of insiders would climb the tree tomorrow.

break off its limbs and beat it back home with some sort of souvenir of the occasion.

The winner of course would be the child who got the biggest green plum; yanked it off the tree before the warm and strengthening suns of public opinion had matured it in the hearts of the people.

He'd place it in a fruit jar in his kitchen window, keep it freshly watered and watch its skin turn from olive green to its purplish shade of maturity. It might change color, but it's just a phony thing by convention time; just a plum, skin deep, on the inside a pulpy mass of unripened opportunity, picked too soon by the wrong man. But by golly, he'd have it; and he'd run—let's say for President.

All but one of the gang who had gathered 'neath the tree at blossom time would be disappointed, but each would have something to show that he'd been there. Something that to his dying day he'd never let the country forget; that he was mentioned for the nomination in 1952.

SHOULD THE TIME ever come that his pals let the plum get ripe, and one of them got elected, the fact that he once was mentioned might put him in line for the Cabinet, or something.

When they got their coveted souvenirs of the premature raid, the winners of second to fifth places in the contest didn't notice what they'd done to the tree; that they'd bent and broken many of its most beautiful and prolific limbs, and left it an awkward object in the national plum orchard.

They either have heard, or didn't sense, what people said about the tree; as passers-by stopped for years to come outside the fence and one asked the other:

"It's a grand spot, I agree; the spot whence comes the hope of our nation; but why doesn't someone cut down that battered thing right there in the foreground?"

"Youngster, that was a great tree in its day," says pop, who voted in 1896. "That tree once grew plums for Roosevelts and Tafts—that's the poor old Republican tree."

"Roosevelt and Taft plums from the same tree?" questions the bewildered youngster.

"Not the ones you knew; they were Teddy Roosevelt and Big Bill Taft," is pop's answer.

"Something sure has happened to it since then," remarks the kid. "Too many people been climbing it," says the old-timer—and they drive on.

I REMEMBER Mr. Odell's plum tree that inspired this reverie. I remember that after the kids had almost ruined it the wise old fellow came to us one day, and we gathered to prematurely gobble its unripened fruit—and he said:

"Boys, give the old tree a chance. It's still a good tree, what's left of it and we've spared the green plum bellyache that had beset us. Somehow we seemed to get along better with each other. Even the neighbors began to like us."

If you get anything out of this homely allegory—well; and you might even go along with the guess that the man most likely to save the Republican tree never got sick off its green plums.

He's been too busy fighting for the whole orchard—in a uniform. (Copyright, 1952, General Features Corp.)

In these days of high prices, Smith-Parish cannot truthfully tell you that we are "cutting" prices on ROOFING Work and ROOFING Materials! Our wholesale costs have risen too—so have our operating expenses to some extent.

But...we can inform you of two important facts.

First, the quality of our merchandise is superior—in many cases better than last year! And secondly, our prices are practically the same as last year! Thus you are really purchasing better quality for the same price—which means that you are receiving a legitimate bargain.

You can prove these facts for yourself — by phoning 5656 and talking over your ROOFING problems with us. Never will we pressure you into a purchase—and always we will guarantee that you receive what you believed you were purchasing.

Hospital Insurance Rates to Increase 20 to 60 Per Cent

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—Rates for the Blue Cross and Blue Shield hospital and medical insurance plans will be increased by about 20 to 60 per cent on May 1 in New York City and in 12 surrounding New York counties. About 4,900,000 persons in this area are covered by the Blue Cross hospitalization plan. Some 2,500,000 of these also are covered by the Blue Shield surgical and medical plan.

The increases were announced yesterday by Louis H. Pink, board chairman of Associated Hospital Service, the New York Blue Cross, and by Dr. Charles Gordon Heyd, president of the United Medical Service, the New York Blue Shield. They said the boosts were approved by the New York State Insurance Department.

Pink said the rises in Blue Cross were due to increasing hospital costs. Heyd said the Blue Shield boost was caused by more subscribers making demands on services of the plan.

Group Membership
The new Blue Cross monthly rates for group membership will be $1.60 for an individual and $4.36 for a husband and wife or a family. Present rates are $1.24 for an individual, $2.72 for husband and a wife, $3.56 for a family.

For non-group Blue Cross membership, quarterly rates will be $6 for an individual and $15 for a family. Current rates are $4.50 for an individual, $9.45 for a couple, and $12.15 for a family.

Blue Shield's new monthly rates for surgical coverage are 68 cents for an individual, $1.60 for a husband and wife, and $2.88 for a family as compared to present rates of 56 cents, $1.28 and $2.56. Combined Blue Shield surgical-medical coverage will go up in the three categories to 88 cents, $2, and $3.40 from 72 cents, $1.64, $2.96.

Subscription rates for Blue Shield members enrolled on a non-group basis will not be increased, Heyd said.

Pink said coverage for husband and wife was being placed on the same footing as family coverage because the classification for couples cost the organization as much as family coverage.

The higher rates will affect subscribers in New York city and in the counties of Westchester, Suffolk, Nassau, Rockland, Putnam, Orange, Dutchess, Ulster, Delaware, Columbia and Greene.

Alterations to Pontiac Agency

The Pontiac Broadway Garage on upper Broadway is undergoing extensive improvements and alterations to accommodate increased business. An all new brick front showroom will be erected and the service entrance will be from Elmendorf street.

Emil G. Boessneck, Jr., owner and manager, also is having installed a new type Alfol insulation by Bert Bishop of 174 Flatbush avenue. This is a new reflective type insulation which not only retains the heat in the building but also through its reflective qualities enables more light to be held in the building.

In the garage there will be the latest equipment for servicing all makes of cars.

Boessneck, who has been in the business since its incorporation in 1937 and its opening in 1938, is a director of the Y.M.C.A., treasurer of the Rotary Club and a director of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce. (Freeman Photo)

British communiques said there were no bullet marks. The British were seen firing repeatedly in the direction of the convent from a post only 50 yards away.

Could Pass Grating
The front wall of the convent is part concrete and part iron grating. Bullets could pass through the grating.

For the Egyptians to have taken positions in front of the wall would have put them in the field of British fire.

Nuns said both British and Egyptian bullets had come into the convent compound before the Mother Superior appealed to the British to come to their aid.

A British communique said two bombs hurled by Egyptians "terrorists" exploded inside the compound. There were no marks of explosions there today and the nuns said they knew of no such blasts. They added, however, that Egyptians had broken into the compound during the battle.

Body in State

About 500 mourners, led by 30 Egyptian police, accompanied the body to the church and back to the convent, where she lay in state. A number of weeping children from the convent school were in the procession. Mulliner, the U. S. consul, attended the private Requiem Mass.

A public funeral followed by burial in the military cemetery of British headquarters at the nearby Moascar garrison.

Sister Anthony was killed during a four-hour battle between British troops and Egyptian snipers around the convent. Two British were killed and seven wounded, and about 20 Egyptians were reported wounded.

In Cairo, meanwhile, two high school students were reported killed and 19 police injured in two separate clashes between students and police yesterday. The city's primary and secondary schools were ordered closed until Jan. 26 because of the continued demonstrations by the violently anti-British students urging the government to drive the British out of Egypt.

In the early days ships went to Spitsbergen for whales, later for furs. Today, they go for coal.

"Every man who survived is a real man. There may have been fear—but we didn't panic. The seven of us, and many more joined together in praying."

"Slowly Fell Away"

Baker said survivors on the wing "slowly fell away. About three minutes before the boat came, there were 10. We were numb with cold and they kept slipping away from us.

"God was there, all right. I don't think I could have lasted much longer."

Pic. Demetris G. (Jimmy) Apostolon, 23, Hinton, W. Va., said the one on the wing held hands in a chain to stay there.

"I baptized one boy," he recalled. "He said he believed in God, but hadn't been baptized. He slipped off and drowned a few minutes later."

Two men in the fishing skiff reached the wreckage and took the seven survivors to shore 90 minutes after the plane came down.

Other survivors were Sgts. Charles H. and Richard P. Fields, brothers, 6414 N. Brelia, Temple City, Calif.; Pic. William A. Prije, Chicago; Sgt. Gregory Callins, Van Nuys, Calif.; Sgt. H. D. Maynard, Spruce Pine, Ala.

The condition of Karl M. In these days of high prices, Smith-Parish cannot truthfully tell you that we are "cutting" prices on ROOFING Work and ROOFING Materials! Our wholesale costs have risen too—so have our operating expenses to some extent.

But...we can inform you of two important facts.

First, the quality of our merchandise is superior—in many cases better than last year! And secondly, our prices are practically the same as last year! Thus you are really purchasing better quality for the same price—which means that you are receiving a legitimate bargain.

You can prove these facts for yourself—by phoning 5556 and talking over your ROOFING problems with us. Never will we pressure you into a purchase—and always we will guarantee that you receive what you believed you were purchasing.

Hospital Insurance Rates to Increase 20 to 60 Per Cent

New York, Jan. 21 (AP)—Rates for the Blue Cross and Blue Shield hospital and medical insurance plans will be increased by about 20 to 60 per cent on May 1 in New York City and in 12 surrounding New York counties. About 4,900,000 persons in this area are covered by the Blue Cross hospitalization plan. Some 2,500,000 of these also are covered by the Blue Shield surgical and medical plan.

The increases were announced yesterday by Louis H. Pink, board chairman of Associated Hospital Service, the New York Blue Cross, and by Dr. Charles Gordon Heyd, president of the United Medical Service, the New York Blue Shield. They said the boosts were approved by the New York State Insurance Department.

Pink said the rises in Blue Cross were due to increasing hospital costs. Heyd said the Blue Shield boost was caused by more subscribers making demands on services of the plan.

Group Membership
The new Blue Cross monthly rates for group membership will be $1.60 for an individual and $4.36 for a husband and wife or a family. Present rates are $1.24 for an individual, $2.72 for husband and a wife, $3.56 for a family.

For non-group Blue Cross membership, quarterly rates will be $6 for an individual and $15 for a family. Current rates are $4.50 for an individual, $9.45 for a couple, and $12.15 for a family. Blue Shield's new monthly rates for surgical coverage are 68 cents for an individual, $1.60 for a husband and wife, and $2.88 for a family as compared to present rates of 56 cents, $1.28 and $2.56. Combined Blue Shield surgical-medical coverage will go up in the three categories to 88 cents, $2, and $3.40 from 72 cents, $1.64, $2.96.

Subscription rates for Blue Shield members enrolled on a non-group basis will not be increased, Heyd said.

Pink said coverage for husband and wife was being placed on the same footing as family coverage because the classification for couples cost the organization as much as family coverage.

The higher rates will affect subscribers in New York city and in the counties of Westchester, Suffolk, Nassau, Rockland, Putnam, Orange, Dutchess, Ulster, Delaware, Columbia and Greene.

Car, Truck in Collision

A car operated by Zolton S. Zeher, of 48 Starke street, Tonawanda, and a truck of Ira Saxe, Plank road, operated by Carl E. Van Bramer of Delaware avenue, Kingston, were in collision on the Ontario Trail at 6:15 o'clock this morning near the Saxe farm. The truck had left the farm and was proceeding toward Kingston when the Pontiac car of Zeher, also proceeding toward Kingston, collided. The Pontiac car struck the left rear of the truck doing considerable damage to the passenger. Van Bramer sustained an injury to his knee and elbow and Robert Mullen, accompanying Zeher was injured. Both Mullen, who resides in Buffalo, and Zeher reported they would seek medical aid. The accident was reported to the sheriff's office by Saxe.
